Cal Murphy has yet to experience defeat in his new role as head coach of B.C. Lions. Thanks to quarterback Peter Liske, Lions reeled off their third straight victory since Murphy replaced Eagle Keys at the helm, downing Toronto Argonauts in convincing fashion to move back into contention for a playoff spot in the Western Conference of the Canadian Football League. Letter Bomb Sent to Alcan

LONDON (CP) — The Canadian-owned Alcan Aluminum Co. became the victim of one of two letter bombs in London today as the explosion-by-mail scheme was resumed after a two-year lull.

This was the first time that the bombers, presumed by police to be the Irish Republican Army (IRA) or segments of it, had picked on a Canadian company. The bomb exploded in the company's offices in fashionable Mayfair but a secretary who opened the package was only slightly injured, police said.

The other package was addressed to Lady Pamela, Countess of Onslow, a central figure in an alleged spying operation against the IRA two years ago. The 59-year-old countess, suffered wounds to her hands and face when she opened the letter bomb but her condition was reported as "not serious."

In the Alcan office, a spokesman expressed surprise that the bombers should have picked on a Canadian organization. However, Alcan is planning to build a multi-million-dollar aluminum processing plant in the Irish republic and there have been outcries by Irish environmentalists who fear the Shannon area would become polluted.

The letter bomb was addressed to a senior company public relations officer who has been in the republic for some months dealing with the protests.

Police said both bombs were mailed in Dublin. The bombings renewed fears that guerrillas may be planning to resume their terror campaign.

100-Foot Plunge Death for Two

Two young Victorians whose four-wheel-drive Toyota plunged 100 feet down a Sooke cliff were among 14 people who died accidentally in B.C. during the weekend.

Helen Louis Wilson, 19, and Grant Douglas Peart, 20, were travelling on the Butler Brothers' main logging road off Otter Point Road when the accident occurred at about 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

Sooke RCMP said the driver, Miss Wilson, lost control of the vehicle at a curve on the gravel road, skidded 500 feet around another curve and over the embankment.

Coroner Roy Gilling said an inquiry will be held following post mortem and lab report findings.

The woman, a UVic student, was daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson of 30 Beach Drive, Peart, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Peart, of 665 Byng, graduated from Oak Bay high school last June and has been working as an apprentice carpenter.

Three others among the 14 were killed on Vancouver Island.

Campbell River resident William Pomponio, 60, died Saturday four miles south of Campbell River on the Island Highway in a two-car collision.

Oscar Konrad, 46, of Gold River, drowned Saturday at Twoswin Narrows in the Tahsis Inlet. RCMP said Konrad's fishing line appeared to have got caught on the outboard motor leg of his boat. He reached over to free the line and fell overboard. He was a poor swimmer, RCMP said, and his wife, who was in the boat, attempted to rescue him with a fishing net but was unsuccessful.

Surface craft and divers searched the area but the body was not recovered.

Kelowna resident Hugo Tewes, 57, drowned Sunday in the Campbell River when his fishing boat capsized. The motor of the boat had become hooked on a guy wire, Campbell River RCMP said, and when Tewes tried to unhook it, the current flipped the craft over.

Other fatalities in the province included Chung Po Chan, 19, of Nanaimo, who was killed in Vancouver Saturday when the car in which he was passenger was struck by another vehicle at an intersection and crashed into the back of a pickup truck.

Near White Rock, Earl Allan Hildebrand, 25, of Surrey, was catapulted into the water and run over by his boat. RCMP said a steering pulley had broken, making the boat swerve violently and run in circles. Hildebrand was fatally slashed by the boat's propeller.

Traffic victims on the mainland were Lorraine Briggs, 39, of Kamloops; Donald Hirschman, 17, of Aldergrove; Edith Bergeron, 63, of Vancouver; Richard Clark, 39, of Vancouver; Daniel Marquis Beck, 17, of Surrey; Robert Elwood Ellis, 83; and a person whose name is being withheld by police, who was killed Sunday on the Squamish Highway.

Gov't Employees Win Shorter Hours, COLA

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

The provincial government and its major civil service union have reached agreement on a new master contract including cost of living and fringe benefits worth at least $93 a month for each employee.

B.C. Government Employees Union executives will recommend its 35,000 members accept the 22-month agreement which covers general working conditions for all employees.

The ratification vote should be completed by Oct. 27 and if the contract is accepted the 13 component groups within the BCGEU will begin negotiating individual wage agreements.

BCGEU executive secretary John Fryer said the new master agreement, the second negotiated with the government since the civil service won the right to unionize, is "a pretty good one."

He said the cost of living agreement (COLA) is an excellent one and will give employees an adjustment every six months starting Oct. 1.

The COLA clause will give employees a one per cent increase in salary for every one per cent increase in the consumer price index over the preceding period.

Fryer said he would agree with Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall that the COLA clause and the large catch-up increases in wages granted the BCGEU last year will likely mean less dramatic wage

Police Accept Pact

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike by Montreal policemen was averted Sunday after they narrowly accepted the city's final contract proposals by a 460-vote margin during two boisterous meetings. Boos mingled with cheers as Gilbert Cusseau, president of the Montreal Police Association, announced that the proposals, which include an improved offer on the crucial issue of work schedules, had been accepted.

Bonds Yield 10.24%

OTTAWA (CP) — Upcoming government bonds carrying a record 10-per-cent interest rate will be priced to yield 10.24 per cent, the finance department announced today. The yield is the highest for government bonds, with the exception of Canada savings bond bonuses announced last year which raised the average annual yields of some previous series to 10.5 per cent if held to maturity.

Gales Lash U.K.

LONDON (AP) — Record rains fell on Britain Sunday and gales lashed the southern coast, killing two persons, authorities said. Three other persons were reported missing after their boat hit a rock. Southampton had its wettest September day this century when 2.14 inches of rain fell in 18 hours, weather officials said.

Peron Replaced

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Senate leader Italo Luder has taken over as caretaker president of troubled Argentina, replacing an exhausted Isabel Peron for a month — and maybe longer. Leaders of the ruling Peronist Party as well as the opposition greeted the change with optimism and hailed the peaceful transfer of power as a triumph for the constitutional process.

Developing Nations, U.S. Deadlocked Over Aid

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the developing countries sought today to break a last-minute deadlock in their efforts to formulate a unanimous UN declaration on closing the rich-poor gap in the world.

The major disagreements were over the Third World desire for industrial countries to commit themselves to link what they pay for raw materials to the prices of their industrial exports, and to pledge to meet the UN goal of seven-tenths of one per cent of gross national product allocated to foreign aid by the end of the 1970s.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan said the U.S. could not commit future congresses or administrations to specific goals by specified dates.

Moynihan, Assistant State

Secretary Thomas. Enders and ministers and diplomats from much of the world met well past midnight Sunday night. They were trying to end the General Assembly's two-week economic special session in unanimity rather than with a split vote that would leave the aid-giving industrial powers in a tiny minority.

Moynihan and Enders warned Third World delegates that failure to agree might jeopardize a consensus achieved in Washington on the far-reaching foreign economic program proposed by the U.S. at the start of the special session.

They said it would be years before any U.S. administration would again present such a program of funds and agencies.

Adjournment of the special session has been postponed since Friday. Delegates have been meeting almost around the clock seeking consensus before Tuesday, when the General Assembly begins its annual three-month regular session.

Meanwhile, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko led the annual influx into New York today of senior foreign diplomats who will attend the opening of the General Assembly.

Gromyko was expected to meet with U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger about proposals to station 200 American technicians in the Sinai desert and other Middle East issues.

The forthcoming 30th regular Assembly session includes in its agenda numerous items concerning the Middle East.

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt agreed tonight to a request by Palestinian gunmen occupying the Egyptian embassy in Madrid for an aircraft to fly them to Algeria, the Middle East news agency reported.

The gunmen are holding the Egyptian ambassador and two other diplomats hostage.

The guerrillas seized the embassy today and threatened to kill the ambassador and two other Egyptian diplomats unless Egypt renounced the interim peace agreement with Israel by midnight (8 p.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the guerrillas said that five Palestinian raiders had barricaded themselves inside the embassy and mined the building.

"The moment someone opens the door or a window, the whole place will blow up," he said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held the Palestine Liberation organization and its leader, Yasser Arafat, personally responsible for the consequences of the embassy raid, an Egyptian official announced in Cairo.

The official said the Egyptian leader warned he would take "decisive measures" if the PLO and Arafat failed to ensure the immediate release of the Egyptian ambassador and his aides.

'Alice Doesn't'—Oct. 29

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. National Organization for Women has asked all women to go on strike Oct. 29 to show the nation how much it depends on them.

Daylyn Jones, now co-ordinator of the nationwide strike, said women across the U.S. are being asked, not to work or spend any money on that day, and instead to participate in rallies, demonstrations, marches and other mass events in most major cities.

She predicted thousands of women would participate. A similar strike was held in 1974.

Wednesday, Oct. 29 will be called "Alice Doesn't" Day — a reference to the Ellen Burstyn movie entitled "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" dealing with a middle-aged woman who takes off on her own after leaving her husband.

In response, according to Ms. Jones, the antifeminist forces led by Phyllis Schlafly planned a counter action entitled "Alice Does."

"We are not all feminists," Ms. Jones said. "But we are all Alices. We all feel that we've been had by the system and it's going to recognize us and do something about it."

She said on Oct. 29 women are being told that "Alice Doesn't":

- Work in or out of the home.
- Spend any money for groceries, services or transportation.
- Volunteer for anything.
- Provide any support to non-feminist political causes, candidates and issues or any non-feminist instructions including businesses, government, churches and unions.
- Babysit or act the role of parent.
- Support the image of women in the media.
- Women who cannot leave work are being asked to wear an "Alice Doesn't" armband, organize a potluck luncheon, picket at lunchtime, demand raises and promotions or hold a consciousness-raising workshop, Ms. Jones added.

Brew, Bruins Bad Mix

ST. JOE, Idaho (AP) — Bears in the St. Joe area have discovered that alcohol and hunters don't mix.

When a Milwaukee Road freight train derailed near the north fork of the St. Joe River Aug. 31, grain and corn spilled from some of the cars. A number of bears gathered to eat the grain, which had fermented from exposure to rain.

Two hunting parties have reported that they found the bears staggering around in a daze. And, they said, they had no problem bagging their limits.

The shooting caused most of the other bears to scatter, along with their hangovers.

Egyptian Embassy Seized

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt agreed tonight to a request by Palestinian gunmen occupying the Egyptian embassy in Madrid for an aircraft to fly them to Algeria, the Middle East news agency reported.

The gunmen are holding the Egyptian ambassador and two other diplomats hostage.

The guerrillas seized the embassy today and threatened to kill the ambassador and two other Egyptian diplomats unless Egypt renounced the interim peace agreement with Israel by midnight (8 p.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the guerrillas said that five Palestinian raiders had barricaded themselves inside the embassy and mined the building.

"The moment someone opens the door or a window, the whole place will blow up," he said.

Antibiotic 'Drug Kick' Opens Door to Epidemic

EDMONTON (CP) — Contrary to the popular notion that antibiotics are a panacea, a geneticist Dr. David Suzuki says within the next few years North America will be defenceless against an epidemic because of its over-dependence on antibiotics and other drugs.

The University of British Columbia zoology professor, who hosts two weekly science programs on CBC television and Radio issued the warning Saturday at the annual convention of the Alberta branch of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists.

Dr. Suzuki said antibiotics are being pushed by pharmaceutical companies to such an extent that people across the continent are becoming resistant to them, leaving society defenceless in the face of disease.

He said such a situation occurred in Mexico recently, killing thousands of people who had developed this type of resistance.

He said the first case of resistance factor was found in the 1950s in a Japanese woman, who received all the usually effective antibiotics for the dysentery she was suffering from, but none of them worked.

Dr. Suzuki said in an interview society must "get off the whole drug kick," adding that most drugs are simply prescribed to alleviate the symptoms while the body cures a disease.

He said this over-use of drugs is part of a general misuse of other scientific discoveries as well, and is fostered by the companies which benefit.

"Are we going to continue to take sugar substitutes so we can be pigs rather than cut down eating?" he said.

Instead of serving the common good, Dr. Suzuki said science and technology are serving the military and industry.

Screening programs developed to filter out potentially harmful new products or chemical compounds are only an excuse for creating more such products, he said.

The researcher called on the general public to attempt to understand science so it can help control science rather than leave the control to experts whose social conscience can be corrupted by self-interest.

Sniper Kills Hijacker

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A police sharpshooter today shot to death a 24-year-old gunman who tried to hijack an empty Continental Airlines 727 jet with four hostages. His death ended a four-hour rampage during which he stabbed a woman he tried to rape in her home.

The gunman, identified by police as Fred Solomon, of San Jose, began the hours of terror when he entered the apartment where the woman lived with her children late Sunday night and stabbed her in the heart.

He then drove to San Jose hospital, kidnapped Dr. Frank Wiefels at gunpoint, and sped with him to Reid-Hillview Airport, where he encountered a security guard and demanded a small plane and pilot.

Police said that when Solomon discovered no plane was available, he took the guard hostage as well and drove shortly after midnight to San Jose municipal airport, where he found two maintenance men preparing the 727 for an early morning flight. Branching a .38 caliber revolver, he took them hostage also and ordered them to get him a flight crew, a gun and ammunition.

Negotiations between Solomon and the airport control tower began, with a maintenance man relaying the hijacker's demand by radio, said assistant San Jose police chief Jay Probst. Control tower workers immediately notified police, who arrived at the scene within several minutes, with sharpshooters — members of the special weapons and tactical team known as SWAT.

During the negotiations, the security guard and one of the maintenance men escaped while Solomon was distracted, Probst said. The doctor was shot in the leg when he tried to escape from the plane, police added.

Officers said the negotiations were in process for half an hour. They shot out the tires as the aircraft started to taxi down the runway.

"There was no possibility that the plane could have been flown," said police Lt. Don Trujillo.

Solomon decided to give himself up and began walking down the plane's ramp, clutching his gun in one hand, Trujillo said.

MACKASEY 'SORRY'

HALIFAX (CP) — Joe Davidson, national president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said Sunday he feels Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey is sorry he said he will shut down the post office in the event of a national postal strike.

He said following a closed meeting with his Nova Scotia membership he feels the statement is "very irresponsible."

Mackasey said last week he would consider shutting down the post office for two or three months if a national strike occurs.

Davidson said in an interview he does not know if the postmaster-general will follow through on his threat.

BCGEU Master Pact

Increases in the next round of bargaining.

"Certainly the components will not be looking for the same type of increases as last year — the membership does not have the same expectations," said Fryer.

There is no overall goal for wage increases in the next round of bargaining, he said, since each component will have individual needs and demands.

Besides the COLA clauses, the new master agreement which extends from Oct. 1 to Aug. 1, 1977, includes the following:

—A standard 35-hour week (10,000 BCGEU members are now working a 37½-hour week).

—An increase in the cash payback of unused sickleave at retirement to 50 per cent, from 40 per cent.

—An innovative new sick leave scheme to allow working parents to stay home with sick children.

—Improvements in the union's dental care plan.

—An increase in the government's contribution to medicare premiums to 70 per cent, up from 50 per cent.

—Major increases in shift differential premiums amounting to an increase in bonus pay of five cents an hour.

—Increases in mileage allowances, out-of-town expenses and isolation pay allowances.

BCGEU spokesmen said the new sick leave scheme, which is separate from existing sick leave allowance, will allow employees a maximum of 10 days off a year to look after sick dependent children.

Employees will be allowed to take two days at a time, five times a year under the proposal.

Long service employees will benefit from improved vacation allowances, with the agreement calling for four weeks' holiday after eight years' service, five weeks after 15 years and six weeks after 23 years, beginning in January.

The agreement took three months of negotiations to hammer out — a much shorter period of time than during negotiations for the first master agreement which was signed in April 1974 and will expire at the end of this month.

Several component wage agreements have already expired and the remainder will expire at the end of this month but negotiations for new contracts cannot begin until the master agreement is ratified.

Fryer said the components "will not be looking for contracts any shorter than the master agreement, that is 22 months... but some might be longer than that."

The provincial secretary said the government does not anticipate large wage increases because of the COLA clause and because of the large catch-up salary increases which averaged 17.3 per cent last year.

BCR MOVE 'UNFOUNDED'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A rail union official called "unfounded" Sunday a British Columbia Railway move to further cut back service because of a reported union decision to stop giving 24-hour notice of rotating strikes.

"We just haven't done that yet," said Dave Sifert of the United Transportation Union.

BCR spokesman Hugh Armstrong had earlier said railway traffic has already been reduced to 40 per cent because of the strikes.

He said stoppage of the 24-hour notice would mean further layoffs and cutbacks.

But Sifert said while the union is contemplating the move, it hasn't yet made any decision.

Warning To Getty?

ROME (Reuters) — Attackers set fire to the Rome apartment of Paul Getty III, grandson of the American oil millionaire, in what police thought might be a warning to him not to talk about his five-month kidnapping in 1973. Police said the attack on the apartment took place early Sunday. Damage was confined to the door and the entrance hall.

Indian Talks Held

FORT ST. JAMES (CP) — A five-hour meeting between the Stuart-Tremblay Indian Band, British Columbia Railway and B.C. government representatives ended Saturday with the government agreeing to come back with resource information. The meeting was called to discuss compensation for land taken by the crown corporation to build its Dease Lake extension in northern B.C.

the weather

A weak disturbance which moved past central B.C. and the south coast yesterday afternoon has all but dissipated over southeastern B.C. this morning. A more intense system approaching the north coast will bring more cloud and rain there this morning which will spread to the central interior and the south coast by tonight. By Tuesday afternoon the system will have moved into Alberta and weakened but the cool flow of air in its wake will maintain more cloud over B.C. with isolated showers on the south coast and a few thunder-showers in central and eastern B.C. Clearing will begin from the north coast Tuesday afternoon.

Chance To Pay $40

OTTAWA (CP) — The Olympic organizing committee will conduct a raffle next month giving the public a chance to pay up to $40 a seat to attend the opening or closing ceremonies of the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, an Olympic official said today.

Gerard Savard, director-general of ticket sales, said the organizing committee and the post office are co-operating in a month-long plan to sell 20,000 pairs of tickets for two events.

He said a drawing will be held late in October giving applicants the right to buy a pair of tickets.

Meanwhile in Geneva, the European Broadcasting Union (EBU) formally announced today a final agreement with Montreal organizers on television coverage of the 1976 Summer Olympics outside North America.

The EBU said five regional TV groups from East and West Europe, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East will together pay the Montreal organizing committee $9.4 million for television rights.

Guns Rattle Away In Tripoli, Beirut

BEIRUT (AP) — Palestinian mediation averted a potentially explosive anti-government strike planned by leftist Moslems today, but Christian-Moslem fighting spread to Beirut. At least 20 more persons were reported killed in machine-gun battles Saturday night and Sunday in the northern city of Tripoli, the hills around it and several Beirut suburbs. This increased the casualty toll since Sept. 3 to nearly 150 killed and twice that many wounded.

Moslem leftists had called a countrywide general strike to protest the use of the army as a buffer force between warring Christians and Moslems in northern Lebanon. Premier Rashid Karami, a Moslem, asked Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat to intercede with the leftists, and he arranged a meeting between Karami and Socialist bloc leader Kamal Jumblatt.

Jumblatt agreed to call off the strike "to avoid having the fighting move to Beirut," Karami said. He had established a new dialogue with the left which would pave the way to "national reconciliation" Palestinian guerrillas of the Syrian-backed Saika group passed the word that any shopkeeper who did not open for business faced guerrilla reprisals, and most Beirut shops were open today.

However, fighting broke out Sunday in four suburbs of Beirut, and witnesses said Palestinian guerrillas were among the Moslem forces battling Christian militiamen of the conservative Phalangist party. Seven persons were reported killed.

Army troops near Tripoli opened fire for the first time since they established buffer zones last week between the warring Christians and Moslems.

The troops clashed with militiamen of the leftist, predominantly Moslem October 24 Movement who police said blew up buildings and cabins at a Christian beach and then threatened to kill Christian workers at a nearby cement factory.

Artist Dies

TOKYO (AP) — Shriko Munakata, internationally known woodblock artist whose rustic works featured Buddhist images and historic Japanese scenes, died of cancer Saturday at his Tokyo home. He was 72. The winner of numerous international prizes, Munakata was referred to by fellow Japanese artists as the "daredevil" for challenging the traditional art establishment.

Thorn Arrives

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Luxembourg Premier Gaston Thorn who will be president of the 30th United Nations General Assembly, arrived Sunday in the United States. Thorn, 47, will be elected president of the General Assembly, which opens its session Tuesday. He is the unanimous choice of the Western European members, whose turn it is to nominate the assembly president under the regional rotation system.

Australian Banner Dips In Papua New Guinea

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea (UPI) — The drums rolled the solemn sounds of "retreat" and the Australian flag dropped to the bottom of the flagpole in Sir Hubert Murray Stadium.

The ceremony at sunset today ended nearly a century of Australian administration in Papua New Guinea.

"But we are lowering it — not tearing it down," the governor-general designate, Sir John Guise, said of the Australian banner. "This is a time of goodwill and friendship, not a time of destruction," Guise said.

A combined band from the Royal Australian Navy, the pipes and drums of the Pacific Islands Regiment and the Royal Papua New Guinea Constabulary beat the retreat, and the flag came down.

Then, slow marching across the open-air stadium, a five-man color guard from the Papua New Guinea defence force carried the flag off the field.

Britain's Prince Charles and Australian Governor General Sir John Kerr headed a list of guests from more than 30 nations in the flag-lowering ceremony.

Tuesday Papua New Guinea will raise its own bird of paradise flag to mark the country's attainment of full independence.

Kerr spoke at the ceremonies of the trust and cooperation between Australia and Papua New Guinea which had led to "an amicable attainment of independence."

He described the "almost unique relationship" which had seen Australia consciously striving to hand over control to its colony in accordance with the colony's direction.

Britain's Queen Elizabeth will be titular head of state of the new nation, formed by the union of the Australian territorial possession of Papua and the United Nations trust territory of New Guinea.

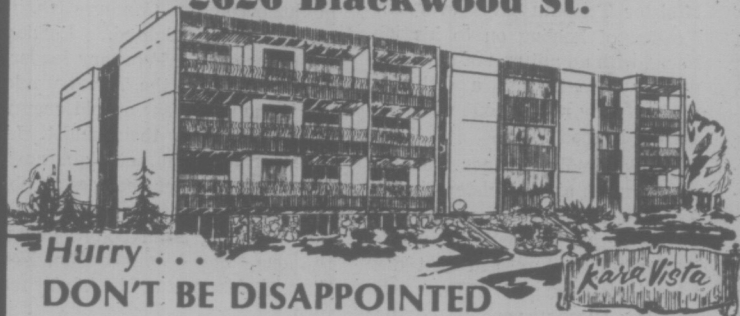

Australia had administered Papua since 1906 and New Guinea since 1914. Before then, Papua was a British protectorate and New Guinea a German protectorate.

Au Revoir Is Not Goodbye

John Turner's surprise resignation from the finance portfolio opens up a Pandora's box of speculation on the direction the country will take in these grave economic times. Turner was regarded as a hard-liner, the man who wanted more government spending cuts and perhaps even controls to cool double-digit inflation. Business considered him an ally. Yet it is ironic that all this hand-wringing comes to the fore after the resignation, when the country's economic policies showed little direction during his stint at the financial tiller.

The only way to stem speculation would be to know why Turner resigned. No answers are forthcoming yet. It is interesting that while the minister's resignation letter to the prime minister gave no reasons, the prime minister's reply emphasized that Turner was not leaving because of policy differences. It would appear the finance minister made his leave-taking purposefully vague in order to keep his options open. The man of action has had tough battles in the past with his cabinet colleagues who prefer theorizing to practical applications. But he was obviously thinking about the future as opposed to the past in submitting his resignation.

To be mired in the finance portfolio — often referred to as the graveyard of politicians — at a time of record deficits, high inflation and increasing unemployment is not the harbinger of a sterling political future. At 46 years of age Turner has time to see which way the political winds blow. Alan MacEachen is newly ensconced in the external affairs portfolio — the only other cabinet post which mildly interested Turner — and Prime Minister Trudeau gives every indication of holding on to his job. Faced with an autumn of dark economic portents and a dithering cabinet, why not get out while the getting is good?

Undoubtedly, Turner was one of the most able ministers in the Trudeau administration. His tenure in the justice portfolio resulted in much-needed reform that died when he left the post. In finance he had less success, perhaps because of scarce support for his ideas or possibly because there are no hard and fast answers to our inflation woes. To categorize him as right or left is silly. In justice he was reform-minded, economically he was conservative; by any other name, a forthright politician who has strong views. His popularity with Canada's business establishment provided a much-needed link for the Trudeau administration which is regarded with suspicion in commercial circles. The timing of his resignation will not be regarded as a good economic omen in the country's boardrooms.

As to speculation that Turner might become a Conservative, it appears shortsighted. Licking their lips over a February leadership conference, the Tories would not be happy to see an old enemy parachuted into their midst. In time perhaps, but not right now. Meanwhile, Turner becomes an observer rather than a participant. For how long is anybody's guess. But one thing seems certain, like General MacArthur he shall return.

They Need Love—and Money

My, that was a puzzling speech Premier Dave Barrett gave to the province's mayors and aldermen assembled for the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities. It showed in the reaction of those in the audience, from Mayor Peter Pollen of Victoria who found it patronizing ("ill-informed and shocking" in the mayor's overkill) to Vancouver Ald. Jack Volrich, who said it contained "little that was constructive" and Burnaby's chief magistrate, Tom Constable, "let's work together . . . a good speech."

Barrett talked of creating love and peace and kindness in the province's municipalities, to head off anarchy and alienation — which may account for the UBCM's peevishness. Those who see things through the end of a municipal sewer pipe understandably find it a little bit difficult to sympathize with those on top of the heap with their heads in the clouds.

Traditionally, premiers have gone to UBCM conventions to announce more financial aid for municipalities, but this time Barrett broke the mould. "Big Daddy politics" is gone, he said. "It's no longer a parent-child relationship." But if the UBCM wants to discuss privately the state of municipal finances, he'll give them a full hearing.

Answering the what-have-you-done-for-me-lately chorus, the premier outlined all the things his government has done for municipalities — the natural gas revenue-sharing, the community recreational facilities fund, sewerage assistance, one-third reduction in welfare costs, reimbursement for private hospital welfare bills, per capita grant catch-up.

Of course, he didn't boast about other "savings" such as the takeover of the property assessment bureaucracy. It's been centralized and computerized, but the bill — which municipalities share — has zoomed upwards. Ditto with the provincial courts takeover. The senior government also took back with its left hand more municipal money for their share of the welfare budget overrun.

Where the accounts balance, and whether in the black or in the red, is hard to compute. But even the premier must see that while his government has been generous to municipalities, their expenses have soared while their sources of revenue are hard to expand. Even Municipal Affairs Minister Jim Lorimer admits that if he was a municipal politician, he'd be pestering Victoria for more money.

The election promise which municipalities wanted redeemed quickest was the pledge to end the financing of schools by property taxation, but only now is the whole matter of property taxation being investigated and it looks to be at least two years before any replacement is brought in. Meanwhile, the per capita grant — still one of the municipalities' most important sources of funds — has been frozen.

Loving kindness and understanding are fine, Dave, but they need cold cash right now.

Prairie Town Grows 'Bigger'

BIGGAR, Sask. — Somehow, I missed the sign. Perhaps it was the mesmerizing geometry of the landscape, or maybe it was the hypnotic banality of the country and western sounds flooding out of the radio. Anyway, on the way out of town I had to stop the car, and look back.

"New York is Big but this is Biggar." No one knows how the famous sign began. Memories go back only to the 1920s when it hung above the platform at the railway station.

A year ago, Biggar tried to find out. The Biggar museum and the Biggar Weekly Independent asked for suggestions. Dozens came in, but none were convincing.

It seems the obvious thing for a small town to ask itself such questions. In fact, it had never happened before. The asking itself symbolized a change of life that had come about in this gritty, little community.

Only 2,600 People

There isn't much in its past that Biggar has wanted to remember. Canadian National created the town, on a hill above an alkali slough in 1908, and then dismembered it decade by decade. The roundhouse closed in 1966 and now only the operating crews remain. Rural depopulation has undercut Biggar's role as a service centre. The population today is 2,600 — smaller than in the 1920s.

In the past, also, things happened that everyone now wants to forget. The Ku Klux Klan made Biggar its Prairie headquarters in the 1920s and crosses burned in front of the Catholic convent. The fiercest battles of the 1962 Saskatchewan doctors' strike were fought here, leaving the town divided and bitter.

Everyone, though, remembers

Heather Robertson. She came here in 1972 to do research for a book called Grass Roots. She left behind her a sense of betrayal. In Grass Roots, an account of prairie small towns that is at one and the same time brilliant and empty of charity, Robertson savaged Biggar as probably no other Canadian community has been: "Crowded and claustrophobic . . . it thinks small and thinks cheap . . . grubby . . . people on the street are aggressive and outspoken . . . the businessmen are nervous and evasive."

That bleak description drew me to Biggar. I found it wrong.

The aggression remains, but it is no longer defensive. "Sure, she hurt us," says Gwen MacNab, the wife of a railway freight conductor. "Why did she write about the varicose veins of the old women standing in the Remembrance Day parade and not about the beauty in their faces?"

The nervousness also has gone. Or most of it.

"Our problem is that too much is happening," says Lloyd Hock, mayor and owner of the town's largest store. The "too much" includes a new nine-hole golf course, a new campground for tourists, a new farm implements plant that employs 35, a new malt plant that will employ 50, a new hospital, a new 24-bed old people's home, new 60-unit subdivision, a new 19-room motel.

Planned are a second old people's home, recreation grounds that will include tennis courts, and the paving of the town's streets. All this, the museum included, in less than three years.

There's no magic formula behind Biggar's success. People have made the difference. So, to share the credit, have governments.

Put simply, an incredible range of government programs — all the way from federal and provincial aids to industry to the specifics of projects like Local Initiatives and New Horizons — exist as bootstraps for communities that want to use them.

Hock is one individual who decided to pull all these strings. "I just wasn't going to let Biggar die," says this large, gregarious man who now sees Biggar as an extension of his own personality.

Hock is "an absolute whirling dervish. He won't give us any peace," says a provincial official.

Roundhouse Turkeys

Mayor Hock's enthusiasm is infectious. Terry Coombs, the 27-year-old owner of the Independent, for example, now prints 10 provincial weeklies at his plant. He also markets his own product, called grainfetti, which is tiny squares of paper printed with numbers. Farmers throw the grainfetti into the bins, and no one dare steal the grain because speckled through it are the tell-tale scraps of paper. Each farmer's identifying number is registered.

The roundhouse no longer is empty. It's filled with about 100,000 gobbling turkey hens and toms. The turkey farmer is a local man, so is the owner of the agricultural implements plant.

That museum, though, best captures the change here. A town that knows it has a future can afford to look at its past. In winter, schoolchildren come into the museum to feast on ice cream made in old tin churns and on bread baked in a cast-iron kitchen range.

"You can write what you want about a small place," says Coombs, "provided you walk away and don't come back." Robertson came too early to Biggar. Or left too soon. Anyway, she hasn't been back.

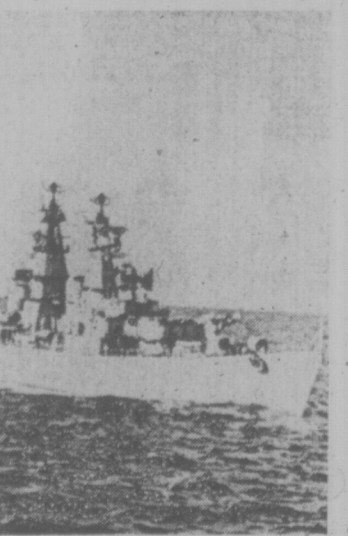

Scott Chided

In his column of Sept. 8, Jack Scott refuses to agree that his statements regarding Americans are a diatribe or message of hate and claims that all he has written is the simple truth. He asks if it is not our duty to dissociate ourselves from a government agency which "carried out the assassinations of leaders of other nations" and, in Chile, participated actively in "an armed insurrection that took the life of a freely-elected president." Mr. Scott phrases this statement in such a way that it appears the Americans were directly responsible for Allende's death. I read that he committed suicide. Has Mr. Scott ever thought what might have happened to the U.S.A., and Canada, if the insurrection had failed and Allende had subsequently permitted the Russians to base missile cruiser squadrons in Chilean ports so that they could interdict shipping in the South Pacific and the South Atlantic when the time comes, as it surely will? Further, who are all those assassinated leaders? I haven't heard of them.

Mr. Scott speaks of the heartless bombing of unprotected cities in Vietnam. Unprotected? That's odd! I saw many photographs of North Vietnamese manning the very latest in Russian ground to air missiles.

Mr. Scott mentions "an American president's secret and undeclared war against Cambodia." I suggest that any secrecy in this area was forced on a realist president by the presence in American society of a large number of idealists who know little of history or military strategy. Would the British military authorities of the time have instructed Wellington to defeat the French in Portugal but refused him permission to pursue them when they retreated into Spain? Of course not. Wars are not fought that way. Mr. Scott asks if it is anti-American to have been sickened by a foul-mouthed American president and vice-president and deplores American abuses of power. Has he nothing to say about foul-mouthed Canadian politicians, one of whom told striking workers to "mangez de la merde" while the other is reported to have used that certain four-letter word to curse a lady reporter who had annoyed him? And what fair-minded Canadian cannot recall Canadian politicians giving classic examples of "fraud,

RUSSIAN CRUISER
... just waiting for Scott

political chicanery and outright lying?" — Mr. Scott speaks of the long list of fascists who have used American arms and military training to keep their people in bondage. Doesn't he realize that where people have had little or no experience of democracy, the most likely alternatives to American-assisted fascists who keep their people in bondage are Russian or Chinese-assisted communists, who keep their people in bondage?

If Mr. Scott thinks that what he has written about Americans is the simple truth, I fear he is greatly mistaken. Incidentally, I am a Canadian, but one who sees the truth differently from Mr. Scott. — Peter Gage, 301-1066 Foul Bay Road.

Helping the Rich

If Richard Needham, in his article in the Sept. 8 Times, meant to be provocative, he succeeded. If he meant to be original, he failed.

I quote: "Abolish the minimum wage. Abolish unemployment insurance. Abolish welfare except for people physically unable to work. Abolish subsidized housing. Cut corporation taxes in half. Cut income taxes in half on people making more than $15,000. Freeze wages but don't freeze prices or profits."

Take from the poor and give to the rich? This is hardly an original idea. We are already doing it.

Let me quote now from the report of the special senate committee on poverty: "The popular notion that our tax system takes from the rich to give to the poor is a myth. Fifty-six per cent of the income of those earning less than $2,000 (before transfer payments) goes to paying taxes. Those with incomes over $10,000 pay only about 37 per cent in taxes."

The Economic Council of Canada, in its 1969 study on patterns of taxation in Canada stated that in that year the lowest-income 28 per cent of Canadians paid $1.9 billion in taxes and received $1.95 billion in transfer payments. Less than 20 per cent of these payments were in welfare.

Over five million Canadians live in poverty — 60 per cent of them are not on welfare, but are active members of the labor force.

The top-income 8.5 per cent of the population get 10 per cent of all family allowance payments; the bottom 12.5 per cent get only two per cent of these payments.

RICHARD NEEDHAM
... got his facts wrong

Anyone who would care to verify these figures or research the subject further might read the two reports I've quoted above, as well as the Canadian Fact Book on Poverty, published by Canadian Council on Social Development.

One fact stands out above all others: the rich are being subsidized by the poor. Playing Robin Hood in reverse, as Mr. Needham suggests, will only give us more of the same. — Greg Welsh, 310-200 Dallas Road.

Alcohol and Crime

A widely-publicized comment by criminologist Ezra Fattah of Simon Fraser University suggests that there is a propensity to crimes of violence that increases as Canada is traversed from east to west.

There is no doubt as to the increased prevalence of violent crime in the west on a per capita basis, for this trend has been noted many times in the past. Similar statistics can be adduced for divorce, marriage breakdown, drug addiction, mental health problems, and abortion.

The strange thing about Fattah's comment is the absence of any reference to one of the most causative factors of crimes of violence, the use of alcohol. For this ought to be one of the first places one would look for trends such as are here noted. Correlations between use of alcohol and violent crime are striking, although varying in some cases, as Dr. Fattah noted with violence.

That alcohol is a major factor in crimes of violence is borne out by the fact that in Yukon, where the rate of absolute alcohol consumption is over four gallons per capita, the crime rate rose nearly 20 per cent in 1974.

Theories of crime causation need to come down to realistic factors such as the above. — Harold T. Allen, 2140 Kings

Quiet Dismay

It is said that too many nursing homes and rest homes in Victoria are closing because the people involved with such work have become tired of the responsibility of caring for the residents, because of high costs, etc.

If such places close suddenly, it too often leaves the people living in "quiet dismay" while they wait to be moved from one place to the other, if room can be found elsewhere.

Is there no law that protects them from this "move on attitude?"

It seems a very cruel way to do business with the type of people thus involved. They enter such homes in the hope they will receive the care they need. The task demands better understanding and more protection from the power of the dollar, and careless care.

If Alberta can improve such care, why not B.C.? — Mrs. B. Brazil, 616 Battery Street.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of September 5, 1915

John Hanley, whose face is somewhat familiar in the police court both as an offender and as a sometimes boisterous member of the crowd back of the rail, was once more in the dock this morning. This time he was charged with being an idle and disorderly person, and with creating a disturbance by shouting on Yates' Street. Deputy Police Chief Palmer testified that yesterday afternoon he saw Hanley leaning against a wall with a number of little dogs at his feet and shouting at the top of his voice from time to time. The court agreed with the opinion of the accused that he had been drinking too freely and sent him to jail for 10 days to sober up.

Back from Death Row To Responsible Life

Eighteen years, four months, and 30 days ago I was supposed to be executed. Hanged. I was to be led through a green door 20 yards from my cell to the scaffold. My ankles and wrists tied with straps. A black silk hood pulled over my head and the noose placed around my neck. Then, at midnight, the trap was to be sprung. I'd drop through the floor to hang by the neck until dead.

I was ready for it. I had waited on Death Row in Oakalla Prison, near Vancouver, for a year until that night. I had watched six other men go through that door to die. When they came to get me, just before midnight on April 1, 1957, I turned and walked towards the execution room. It was only then they told me my death sentence had been commuted to life imprisonment.

Joe Gordon wasn't as lucky. Joe and I had been casing a robbery in Vancouver on the night of December 8, 1955, when Joe pulled a pistol and killed a Vancouver policeman. For that murder we were sentenced to hang, back to back. I got a last-minute commutation, and Joe died alone at midnight.

Until now, I've never told my story. It's not a nice one. I'd been a criminal most of my life. Armed robberies. Safe-crackings. Running the heroin trade in Vancouver. The works. I spent 22 of my first 39 years in prisons.

I was paroled on March 13, 1968. In the seven years since I have created a new life for myself here in Saint John. I'm 46 now, married, and have two adopted boys and four foster children. I worked in an orphanage after my parole and now I help mental patients in a Saint John hospital. Recently, the mayor of Saint John, Edis Flewelling, said he was proud to call me his friend.

Father Left

In the present debate over capital punishment, you can make what you will of my case. The police chiefs are calling for strict enforcement of capital punishment, and the lawyers have been debating the federal cabinet's power to commute death sentences. In my own case I only know that given the chance I was able to create a new life with a new meaning to it.

My life began in Alliston, Ontario, and it got off to a bad start. My father split even before I was born. At 11, I was in an orphanage in Barrie. I was in and out of training schools and at 15, was serving time in Simcoe County Jail. I was put in a cell next to an 18-year-old Indian boy who was sentenced to hang. I still remember the morning they took him out to execute him. He smiled and said "I'm not scared."

There were stretches in the Guelph reformatory and sentences in the pen at Kingston. Twice I was paddled by the guards.

You could say it was in the B.C. pen I took my master's degree in crime. I made connections there with the heroin dealers and, after I got out, I worked the drug racket in Vancouver until my boss, Danny Brent, was taken out

Jim Carey was convicted in Vancouver, in 1956 of killing a policeman and was sentenced to be hanged. He spent a year on death row in Oakalla Prison before his sentence was commuted. He was paroled in 1968 and now lives in Saint John, N.B., where he is a recreational therapist at a provincial mental hospital. He has also worked with ex-prisoners, helping them find jobs and settle. Terry McCormack, Carey's former prison classification officer, says "I firmly believe that Jim Carey is the finest example alive for the cause of abolishing capital punishment. He epitomizes what can be done with time, patience and insight. I consider him today my closest friend." His words are echoed by Saint John Mayor Edis Flewelling: "That man helped my son once when he was in trouble, and there's nothing I wouldn't do for him in return. He's an extra special type of man and a tremendous influence for good in our city — especially with young people." In this article Carey tells Toronto Star reporter Paul King what it was like on Death Row.

one night to a golf course and shot dead.

I met a pretty girl, Noreen, and moved in with her. When our daughter Leslie was born in 1955 I went straight for a while. I drove for an express company.

But on the night of Dec. 8, 1955, Joe Gordon, who was 33, a crook I'd met in the pen, showed up at my place. He was out on bail on a bank robbery charge and needed $2,000 for a lawyer. He showed up with a gun and another con, named Bob Smith.

Gordon talked me into casing a joint he planned to rob later: a fuel company called Watkins-Winmar. All of us — me, Noreen, the baby, Joe, and Smith — set off in Smith's blue '53 Ford. Joe and I cased the place and were coming out of an alley when a police cruiser pulled up in front of us.

There was only one policeman in the car. I knew him. He was Gordon Sinclair. He opened the door and said, "What are you doing down here, Jim?"

We were only about 10 feet from him. He had one foot out of the door, his right hand was on his holster. Suddenly Joe said, "Okay you . . . put that away." Then Joe pulled the trigger. The bullet went through Sinclair's right cheek. He fell out the door and slumped on the sidewalk.

Joe fired a second shot. I learned afterward that the first had entered Sinclair's brain; the second severed his spinal cord.

We got away that night but a few days later Joe Gordon was arrested in Vancouver. I fled east and hid out in the Ontario backwoods and, later, in Toronto. I was on my way to rob a bank on Sherbourne St. one afternoon when the police closed in on me — and soon I was flown back to Vancouver to stand trial, with Joe Gordon, on a charge of murder.

Our trial lasted two weeks. The jury was out only an hour and 45 minutes. When they returned, it was midnight April 29, 1956. The foreman rose and said they'd found both of us guilty.

The judge said, "Will the accused stand?" I stood up beside Joe and the judge looked at us. "You will be taken to Oakalla prison," he said. "And on midnight of July the tenth, you will be hanged by the neck until you are dead."

As he said it, a voice in the gallery cried out, "Amen." It's a wonder I kept standing. A feeling ran through me that I can't describe. Like my blood was draining out from my toes right through my body.

I remember going out of there and smiling at Simma Holt, a reporter covering the trial for the Vancouver Sun. I don't know why I smiled. She looked back with the strangest expression.

In Oakalla, we were being marched down a corridor and I automatically turned and started heading towards my old cell where we had been held while awaiting trial. "Hey, where you think you're going?" a guard yelled. "You guys are on your way to Death Row." I was too stunned to comprehend him. They just led me along in a daze.

Noreen came to see me a few times, and then I cut it off.

"You see," I told her, "you've got to look after yourself from now on. Don't come to see me again. For it's very simple: I'm going to die." She never came again.

Two days after I arrived in Oakalla, Norman Mullins, the young lawyer who had assisted the defence in my trial, came to see me.

Couldn't Pay

"Listen Jim," he said. "I feel I can do something for you in an appeal. Would you let me?"

I told him sure; even though I couldn't pay him. It was the first time I thought I might have a chance. Did that kid fight for me?

We had been sentenced to hang at midnight July 10, 1956.

First Mullins got me a reprieve until October, then took my appeal to the Supreme Court of B.C. in September.

My execution date was delayed again, but then on Feb. 15, 1957 the Supreme Court of Canada voted five to two against me. They set a new date to hang me, March 19.

Meanwhile, I had another new ally in Simma Holt, the Vancouver Sun reporter who is now a Liberal MP from Vancouver. She'd come to see me a month after I went to Oakalla, and soon started coming about five times a week. She brought me books and cigarettes and I started talking. Pretty soon, I had told her everything. She started a campaign to save me from hanging.

I spent 13 months on Death Row. I had a pet white mouse for a while — the old man guarding us gave it to me. But then Gordon killed it. There was a seagull, too, that used to perch on the window opposite my cell day after day. We called it Pete, and Simma wrote about it.

I started taking Grade 5 maths, science, Social Studies and English through a correspondence course. I reached Grade 10 before I finally left prison.

I learned to play chess, and started reading. My first book, I remember, was Magnificent Obsession, then Little Caesar, The Asphalt Jungle, and Knock On Any Door.

Still, Death Row was a horror.

It was on the second floor. There were eight death cells along one side. In front of the cells was a large room with a table in the centre. This was where we exercised, played cards or chess, and where the Death Watch sat.

Walk 13 Feet

In a room next to Death Row were three adjacent cells which were used by condemned men the night of their execution to pray with their preacher, rabbi or priest.

Next to those cells was a shower room in a corridor. The corridor ran exactly 13 feet from the door of the waiting rooms to the green door of the execution room. You no longer climb 13 steps to a scaffold. Instead you walk those 13 feet.

We never left Death Row for meals or exercise. Our food came up on a steam table and the Death Watch dished it out. Everything was set out in advance because we had only 30 seconds to eat with. The lights were kept on 24 hours a day.

We asked for a radio, but some guy had tried to electrocute himself in there once, so they wouldn't allow it. Instead, there was a loudspeaker on the wall hooked up to a radio. For months, I heard myself being hanged by the broadcasters.

There were seven of us in there waiting to go, and I heard all the other ones die. The first to go was an 18-year-old kid. He'd killed a man with a bottle in a fight in Vancouver. The kid had never had a conviction before.

He was religious and always talked about God—even though Gordon used to tell him, "Kid, your only salvation is to go over the wall."

On his way to the execution room he stopped by my cell to shake hands. I got tears in my eyes. "Don't feel bad, Jim," he said. "I'm going to meet my Maker."

The second guy was from New Brunswick. He was such a simple fellow, pleasant, but had nothing to say. He'd killed a little girl after molesting her. It's a terrible thing, I know. I had a little girl of my own. But when they hanged him, they hanged a moron. It's the only way to describe it. The guy never knew what was going on.

The third to go was a guy called Vincent. He'd raped a teenager in a circus, then killed her. Vincent was the kind of guy who laughed all the time; he saw the humor in everything. His only hangup was the hangman. He called him The Pig.

The hangman used to come into the corridor outside the waiting cells a day or two before the prisoner was due to hang. He'd stand there nonchalantly, as if he was waiting for someone. But all the time he was sizing up the prisoner—estimating his weight and bone structure. Figuring out how much his rope had to take. He always stood there in a little hunch and smoked. But we all knew who he was and what he wanted.

When Vincent saw him the day before, he started to holler. But the night he went was a fiasco. Before you die, you're allowed to take something for your nerves. They're pretty lenient. Joe Gordon was spaced out on morphine. But this guy Vincent asked for wine. The guard brought him a bottle, and he asked for more. He killed off half a dozen bottles.

They took Vincent to the waiting room, and then I saw the little guy with the black beret walk in. He was carrying the two black straps he uses to tie your hands together. He went into Vincent's cell, and I started hearing "BFF, BANG." Vincent was hitting the hangman, and the hangman was belting him back with the straps.

Yellow Noose

It usually takes only 30 seconds after you go through that green door before it's all over. They walk you over and put you on the white-painted trap door and shackle your feet. Then they put a black silk hood over your head, and slide the yellow noose around your neck. Suddenly the trap is sprung. And all that is left is the twanging and swinging of the rope.

But that night, instead of the thump—all we heard were screams and shouts. Vincent had knelt the hangman and the hollering was unholy. It was eight or ten minutes before everything suddenly went silent. Vince had fought to the bloody end.

The next to be hanged was an American. Sorry something. He was a black guy. He had killed a woman. All he kept on saying was, "I gotta walk out of here like a man." The night he went he shook hands with every man, wished us luck, and walked out of there straight and proud.

Then they hanged The Professor. He was one of the finest men I've ever known. He was an economics and political science professor at the University of British Columbia, and he'd killed a little girl and hid her body in a field.

He couldn't tell why he'd done it, and suffered tremendous remorse.

I knew The Professor nine months. All that time he helped me with my reading and writing. He taught me chess. And he told me to write letters protesting my innocence in the murder, and he'd help me write them. He was the only one couldn't make it out of the waiting room. They had to carry him into the execution room in a chair.

At last the time came for Joe and me.

Joe's appeal had been turned down. They were only keeping him around so we could die together. It was getting to be an exhausting thing—waiting for that date with Mr. Ellis. His real name was Camille Blanchard, but that's what every hangman's called, Mr. Ellis. I was finally scheduled to die on April 1, 1957. And, because I'd given up all hope, I set my mind on going.

That morning I was visited by Allen MacLeod. He was a federal investigator appointed by the remissions branch—and later became commissioner of penitentiaries. He spent 10 hours interrogating me, and he was the only man I couldn't read. He never betrayed a speck of emotion.

It was quiet as hell that evening. For the last three days, Mr. Ellis had been testing the gallows. He'd come and looked Joe and me over, then he'd gone to test his ropes. They tie weights to the end of them, the same weight as the prisoner, and then they drop them to make sure they'll hold.

3-Hour Wait

The night I was to die I heard footsteps outside my cell and I knew it was Deputy Warden Mark Adams coming. I wasn't sure of the time, but I knew they always take you to the waiting cells about 9 p.m. That gives you three hours to prepare yourself before the midnight drop.

I saw the deadlock bar slide open on my cell, and I got up and stood at the door. It was Mark, all right. He said, "Okay, Jim."

I walked out, and turned left, and headed straight to the waiting cell. There was no point saying anything to Joe Gordon. He was already spaced out on morphine. Besides, I knew I'd be swinging beside him in three hours.

I stood in the waiting cell and Mark came in behind me. He held out his hand. He was beaming. "Congratulations, Jim," he said. I took his hand like a dead fish. "Why?" I asked.

"The cabinet has commuted your sentence to life," he said.

I felt nothing. Nothing in the way of relief or gratitude. Absolutely nothing. It was just too much anticlimax.

"I'm sorry to have brought you here," Mark said. "But I didn't want Joe Gordon to hear. He's still going to hang."

Then Adams took me to another cell behind Death Row. Directly across a narrow corridor from this cell was the waiting room they took Joe into. There was a peephole in the back wall of his room, and by straining I could see what was going on in there. Joe was talking to his rabbi. He was walking around and moving his arms, but I couldn't hear what he said.

Suddenly in spite of everything, I felt very sorry for him.

They took Joe in soon after midnight. He didn't make a scene. There were four reporters, the sheriff and a bunch of guards. They pulled the trap at 12:13 a.m. It took him 12 minutes to die.

The Other Capital Punishment

By LISA HOBBS
The Sun

He'd been the wheel man, apparently, in some armed robbery. He hadn't carried any weapon, and you can't make a hero out of a guy just because he doesn't carry a weapon. So, when the group was caught, he got his just desserts and drew four years in the B.C. Pen.

It's a funny thing, though. Everybody thought he was a nice guy. A few problems, no doubt about that, but "extremely pleasant and just a good kid to have around." That's how both fellow prisoners and guards thought about Dana Roy Metsos.

So when Dana took his jeans and hanged himself from the bars of his Oakalla cell on August 27 everyone felt a little sick. True, he was due to start his four years at the Pen the next day, yet he'd seemed "quite cheerful, you know, the sort of kid that tries to make the best of things."

When mass was said in the prison chapel the next Sunday 25 prisoners showed up to join in the prayers for Dana. That's an unusual number—but then everybody agreed Dana was an unusual guy. It wasn't only that there was something particularly likeable about him, but 22 seems so young to use your jeans to do something like that.

It's not the first time a guy in Oakalla has strangled himself with his trousers, though. You use what you can.

For instance, while there's no published record of what 37-year-old Robert Histed used when he hanged himself at Oakalla in early 1970, Vincent Yellowhorn, 33, who killed himself in June of that year, used a bedsheet.

Steven Ray Abbott, who was 21 and serving six interminable years for breaking and entering, chose a blanket to strangle himself the following year in August.

Kenneth Macdonald, who was 24, used his shirt when he killed himself in March, 1973. Five weeks later another Oakalla prisoner, Leonard John Engell, also 24, hanged himself, although there's no published record of what he used. Nor is it known what Oliver Kinkerson, 57, used when he strung himself up in May the same year. Neg of Vavilav Zavadil and Michael Horwood, two others who apparently thought hanging was preferable to Oakalla.

September of 1974 saw bed sheets used once again as the noose. Frederick Robert Christie, 29, up for murder, made strips out of his bed linen.

William Robert Sackville, 22, also up for murder, also chose a noose fashioned from cell sheets.

Dana was to be Oakalla's next hanging suicide. Eight days later Louise Ann Lewicki, 31, hanged herself in her Oakalla cell.

Not, of course, that Oakalla is the only place where prisoners hang themselves.

There have been hangings almost everywhere from William Head Prison to Nanaimo jail. Take Douglas Scott Littlejohn, for instance. He was 31 and picked up for speeding in April of last year. That was near Golden, and he was found swinging on the end of his jeans in the Golden jail.

John Willington, who was 19, also used his trousers to hang himself two years ago Christmas Eve in Kamloops jail. Robert Allan Ellis decided to use his tee-shirt in another Christmas Eve suicide this past December. Robert was 19, was "slow" and a drug user. That was in Victoria.

A week later, on New Year's Eve at the West Vancouver police station, Gary Alfred Low committed suicide. He was 17 and hanged himself with his denim shirt. It was, everyone agreed, a tragic accident, a gesture that went wrong.

There have been more hangings, of course. One in May in Matsqui, and another in Kamloops—a young man who was being deported back to the States. And John Brady Jenkins, 22, another American who was being sent back; he was wanted in Indiana on murder charges.

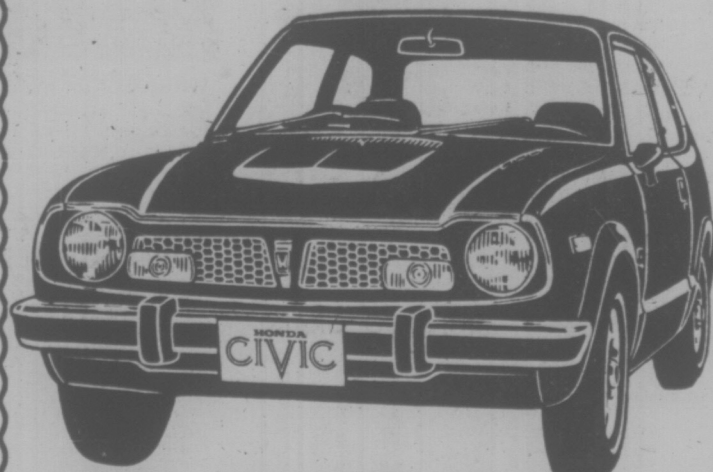

Not that hanging is the only way our prisoners handle their escape from incarceration. Sometimes they slash their wrists or stab themselves. Or, like Marilyn Gardner in Oakalla 18 months ago, drown themselves. Or like James Oliver Erdman, who killed himself in a fall from Victoria's jail.

Everyone agrees, of course, that there is no way any guards can stop a prisoner from committing suicide once he has his mind set on it. And—as it is so often pointed out—the suicide rate on "the outs" has climbed astronomically. You don't have to be in prison to kill yourself.

But it does seem to help, particularly for those bitterly lonely and young. Helps so much, in fact, it makes the whole argument on whether or not to abolish capital punishment a fine academic exercise.

OTTAWA (CP) — July was the worst month for forest fires in history, the Canadian forestry service has reported. A total of 4,341 fires destroyed 1,514,000 acres of woodland.

The forestry service blamed exceptionally dry weather across the country for the destruction, about 2½ times the long-term average for the month.

CROWN PROFITS 'EMBARRASS'

GIMLI, Man. (CP) — Marc Eliesen, planning advisor to the British Columbia government, said Sunday Crown corporations can be embarrassingly profitable.

Speaking at a two-day conference on public ownership sponsored by the New Democratic Party, Eliesen said

B.C.'s NDP government has purchased several financially troubled corporations since assuming office three years ago and converted them into money-making enterprises.

He attributed the success to "good managers and more than a little bit of luck."

Eliesen, a former member of the planning secretariat to the Manitooba cabinet, said the initial social objective of taking a company into public ownership can often turn into a motive for making profits.

He said the B.C. government has entered the insurance, savings, land development, pulp and chemical fields with success.

Eliesen denied a charge that the Insurance Corp. of B.C. had refused to negotiate with workers of the Crown agency during a recent strike. He said ICBC bargained in good faith, and branded the battle for representation among three unions involved in the dispute as a "vicious" confrontation.

Portugal Socialists Back New Regime

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Premier-designate Adm. Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo has received a pledge of full support from the socialist party in his efforts to form a new government to deal with Portugal's political crisis.

Political sources said Socialists, Communists and Popular Democrats have agreed on a general political platform for the new regime, but were still undecided on the distribution of cabinet posts.

The sources said the major sticking point hinged on the ministry of information, with the three parties holding opposing views over the role of the press in Portugal's military-led revolution.

The sources said the Communists feel the media should be subordinate to the needs of the revolution, while the Socialists and Popular Democrats preferred a freer, more pluralistic press.

However, Azevedo said Sunday he hoped to present his

IN SMUGGLE BID

NAIROBI (AP) — A 14-year-old English schoolgirl, who accepted a free trip to Kenya that got her involved in an alleged scheme to smuggle more than $350,000 out of the country, was given a 12-month conditional discharge by a magistrate's court today.

Theresa Ann Laws, who pleaded guilty to conspiring to smuggle out the money, wiped back tears and swayed in the dock as she heard the decision from Magistrate Fida Hussein Abdallah.

Lynn Francis, her 16-year-old classmate and neighbor in Woolwich, England, pleaded guilty to two related charges and was given a similar conditional discharge. A British diplomatic spokesman said arrangements were being made to fly both girls home "as soon as we can."

Defence counsel Kenneth Fraser told the court earlier in the two-week trial that Theresa had been used as a pawn by London businessman Madhusudan Madhubal Patel to smuggle out the money in various currencies from Nairobi airport last June 29.

Both girls had received an expense-paid 10-day holiday in Kenya as guests of Patel. Theresa told the court that on the day of their departure for London, Patel gave her a suitcase, a lampstand and two game-skin handbags—all to be given to his wife, Sushila, in London.

Police, acting on a tip, searched the girls' baggage before they boarded their flight and reported finding currency and travellers' cheques concealed in the lampstand and in the false bottoms of the handbags.

Patel, 40, a former Kenya police accountant who spent four years in a Kenya jail in the 1960s on currency-smuggling charges, fled the country the day the girls were arrested. Officials said Patel owns a chain of grocery stores in Britain.

A conditional discharge means that if the accused person commits any offence in Kenya during the 12-month period he or she can be sentenced both for the new offence and for the previous one.

Two drivers were taken to Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney after a collision at 7 a.m. today in heavy fog on the Pat Bay Highway at McDonald Park Road.

Milton Lee, 51, of 3306 Woodworth, is in satisfactory condition while Guille Stevens, 74, of 935 Towner Park Rd. in Sidney, has been released.

Steven's vehicle was demolished in the accident that occurred when he was pulling out on to the highway as Lee was heading north, RCMP said.

Fog had cut visibility to 250 feet and made driving hazardous from the time it settled at 1 a.m.

Sinners, Winners Heard the Gospel

WASHINGTON (AP) — When is Luke, Chapter 3, Verse 15 not a scriptural reference? When it is broadcast as a tip for winning bets in an illegal "numbers" game, says the Federal Communications Commission.

The FCC said tips disguised as scriptural references were sprinkled in some religious radio programs broadcast in Washington.

And for this and other reasons, the agency revoked the licence for United Broadcasting Co., Inc., to run radio station WOOK and gave it to a new group which includes newspaper columnist Jack Anderson.

The record clearly establishes that WOOK's facilities were used by various ministers to broadcast programs offering three-digit scripture citations in return for monetary donations, said the FCC decision released Friday.

The broadcasting ministers claimed that the scripture citations had been successful in enabling their listeners to receive financial blessings and win at the numbers game.

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Democratic Party MLA Rosemary Brown urged a conference of women trade unionist Sunday to make an end run around the British Columbia legislature.

She asked the fifth annual women's rights conference of the B.C. Federation of Labor to use labor negotiation to achieve for women's rights what she could not do as an NDP backbencher.

She asked the trade union movement to press for "affirmative action" plans in union contracts, and said this would increase the chances that the B.C. legislature would make such programs mandatory for employers doing business with the government.

"The most positive legislation has come about after it was enshrined in trade-union contracts," she said.

Sketches Too Graphic

LONDON (Reuters) — A magistrate's court has described as obscene a book by American graphic artist Tomi Ungerer, a well-known illustrator of children's books, posters and cartoons.

Several copies of it were seized by customs officials at Heathrow airport last November.

The ruling was made against Fornico, a book of 70 drawings which satirize the mechanization of sex.

"We have looked very carefully at these drawings," magistrate's chairman Norman Mullinger said.

"We feel under the circumstances they do offend against standards of propriety, therefore we condemn them."

Seattle 'Bomber' Killed

SEATTLE (AP) — A man was killed early today when a bomb exploded outside a grocery store on Seattle's Capitol Hill, police said.

Police found an identification card at the scene but declined to name the victim pending confirmation of his identity.

Spokesman Tim Burgess said the victim was believed responsible for setting the bomb.

Four stock room employees were inside the Safeway store when the blast occurred but were not injured.

The bomb was placed against the west wall of the store near ventilation screens, Burgess said. Two large compressors inside the store were damaged but structural damage was minimal. No dollar estimate was available immediately.

Police declined to describe the type of bomb used.

Cairo Collapse Kills 60 Men

CAIRO (UPI) — The partially constructed cement roof of a power station collapsed in the town of Kafr el Dawar 100 miles northwest of Cairo Saturday, killing 60 construction workers.

The newspaper Al Gomhuria said 40 other workers survived.

U.S. Hostages in Vietnam?

Alan Dawson, UPI bureau manager in South Vietnam, left Saigon on government orders last Wednesday. He had reported on events in the country for the past five years, including the Communist takeover on April 30.

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — South Vietnam's Communist government wants American recognition badly — so badly it may be holding the 50 or so Americans still in the country as hostages to force negotiations.

"We want normal relations with the United States," government spokesmen tell anyone who asks.

The reason is simple enough: The nation's economy, battered by 30 years of war and disrupted by the sudden Communist takeover last April, needs massive transfusions of foreign aid.

And, say the leaders of the Provisional Revolutionary Government, it is the United States that must come up with the funds.

"It is only natural, according to the history of warfare, that the loser must pay the winner for the damages," said deputy government adviser Trinh Dinh Thao in a recent interview.

The U.S. government, however, doesn't see the situation in quite the same light. It has so far refused to recognize the new Communist regime, and last month vetoed a move to admit South Vietnam to the United Nations.

Irritated by the brushoff, the PRG has apparently decided not to let Americans out of the country in what could be a move to put pressure on Washington.

I was the only one allowed to leave since the UN vote, and my departure was held up by a guard who showed me an order barring all Americans from entering the Saigon airport to board outgoing flights.

About a dozen Americans are under loose detention somewhere in the country. The others are free to roam around Saigon as they please. Intelligence officers following their movements are always friendly, and stress that Communist Vietnamese harbor no ill feelings toward the American people.

"We know that your people have opposed your government's war on us," a foreign ministry official said last week. Nevertheless, the Americans are convinced they will become hostages in a diplomatic manœuvre to prod Washington to change its stand on recognition.

Until that happens, however, the South Vietnamese authorities have decided to make self-sufficiency in food production their first priority, launching a campaign to move more than half of Saigon's 3.5 million people to the countryside.

"We must go backward, however regrettable that is," said Thao. "We must establish self-sufficiency as the first priority to rebuilding the economy. To do that, our people must go back to the farms and the fishing boats."

So far, about 300,000 already have moved out. But unlike the Khmer Rouge in neighboring Cambodia, the South Vietnamese Communists so far have used persuasion, not force.

Propaganda teams visit each ward of the city often to try to convince the jobless and the poor to go back to the farms, offering them free land, transportation, food and money for the first six months.

Still, the Communists are clearly worried about the shape of the economy and are doing what they can to repair it. Officials of the defeated Saigon regime fled with 24 tons of gold — half the nation's supply. Most foreign currency also disappeared from the banks. Imported goods are rising in price and disappearing from the marketplaces.

Bank depositors can receive only the equivalent of $12 per month per family member from their accounts, because many of the piasters were looted by bank officials before the American pullout.

The rich are unhappy, of course, and still apprehensive about the possibility of retaliation. The poor are still poor, but at least are able to sit on committees that discuss national and local policies.

A few bands of anti-Communist soldiers who fought for the former Saigon government are still roaming the central highlands area and parts of the Mekong Delta. But most Vietnamese have accepted the PRG victory, and resistance to the new government is dying off.

"What can those (soldiers) do now?" asked Thao rhetorically. "They couldn't defeat us with half a million Americans and U.S. aid."

For those who have surrendered, the treatment has not been so harsh as expected. There certainly has been no bloodbath.

In fact, many of the senior officials who opposed the Viet Cong in the past are walking around Saigon free to come and go as they please. The last two presidents of the Republic of Vietnam — Tran Van Huong and Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh — live at home and walk the streets freely.

Foreigners, however, have no place in the Vietnam of the future, except for diplomats and, probably, a handful of reporters.

"Vietnam is for the Vietnamese now," said President Huynh Tan Phat in an interview. His deputy adviser Thao agreed.

"Foreign investment is welcome, but only on the basis of the government owning 51 per cent of the investment," he said.

The U.S. embassy has neither been occupied nor desecrated. A small Viet Cong flag flutters from the main flagpole now, but the building is intact.

On the front wall is a handpainted sign: "Saigon welcomes the forces to liberate the capital city." But inside, all has been left untouched.

So far, at least 82 nations have recognized the PRG, and intend setting up diplomatic missions in Saigon when foreigners are permitted in. No one knows when that might be.

The Saigon I left was a sea of flags — the scarlet with yellow star of North Vietnam and the red and blue with gold star of the south. Pictures of Ho Chi Minh were on virtually every wall.

Captured U.S.-made planes and helicopters flew the skies of Vietnam. On the ground, bicycles and public buses have replaced many of the motorcycles, because gasoline costs about $6 a gallon and is getting scarcer.

Soldiers roam the Saigon streets in their pith helmets, fatigues and even those famous black pajamas. Citizens no longer find them a curiosity.

TORTURE CHARGED

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union, South Africa, Spain and Uganda are violating human rights, torturing and executing political prisoners "on a disturbing scale," Amnesty International charged Sunday.

The London-based organization, dedicated to the release of all political prisoners in the world, claimed in its annual report that altogether 107 countries violate human rights to some extent, including the United States.

It cited what it called poor treatment of war resisters in the U.S. and several death sentences, including one passed in Florida on a 15-year-old boy.

"Far too many nations of the world pay only lip service to human rights," Dirk Boerner, chairman of Amnesty's international executive committee, noted.

"They corruptly downgrade human rights into privileges."

Nearly all the countries cited in the report are signatories of the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Amnesty teams visited 31 countries in the last year to investigate allegations of persecution and torture, observe trials and make representations to governments the organization claims are denying human rights, the report said.

Dog Guide Users Criticize CNIB

OTTAWA (CP)—The members of the newly-formed members of the newly-formed Canadian Association of Dog Guide Users also belong to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (CNIB), an organization they say has neglected them.

"The use of the dogs has been discouraged by the CNIB for all kinds of reasons," says Ken Moyle, acting president of the association which represents 250 of about 30,000 blind Canadians.

"When we asked for a list of guide dog users they only gave us 80 names but we found another 130 they didn't even know about," Moyle said at the association's founding conference Saturday.

CNIB spokesman William Milton said there is no policy in the organization to discourage dog use and he said he was surprised at a complaint that dog guides were not allowed in a Quebec summer camp sponsored by the CNIB.

"We were not aware of this and will discuss it with the Quebec division," he said.

Bob Aubrey said CNIB management do not use seeing-eye dogs, so they do not understand that the work involved is well worth it.

"They often tell people it's too much work. It's true that a dog is not all play. The dog must be fed and combed, taken out four times a day and never leaves its master at any time 24 hours a day."

"But with a dog guide we're not handicapped, we're merely restricted."

Sue Leonard, a CNIB orientation and mobility specialist, says despite the independence a dog gives blind people, some people just aren't suited for the task.

"If I know a person can't give the dog proper care or that the dog will be mistreated, sure I'll discourage them from getting one," Mrs. Leonard said.

Report by Spring, Pearce's Target

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — The head of the royal commission into British Columbia forest resources says he hopes his report will be finished next spring, although he has set no date for its completion.

Dr. Peter T. Pearce of Vancouver, a resource economist on leave from the University of B.C., said in a weekend interview that he needs a clarification of the fundamental objectives of public policy relating to forestry in this province.

"This is necessary so that it can be considered by the government and the public," said Dr. Pearce. "Only by making the clear statement of objectives can you make recommendations on specific issues such as stand utilization, the appropriate form of tenures or how to calculate the annual allowable cut in an area."

"I don't think the report would be adequate or satisfactory if it simply discusses problems one after the other."

POWELL RIVER (CP) — About 300 gallons of oil was spilled into the ocean Friday from a broken pipe at MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.'s strike-bound Powell River division, 75 miles northwest of Vancouver.

The spill was cleaned up Saturday when Canadian Paperworkers Union pickets were lifted to allow a union crew to the site of the spill.

The pipe broke while the oil, which fuels a boiler provinding steam heat for parts of the coastal town was being transferred from a storage tank to a smaller tank.

VERNON (CP) — Hotels in the Okanagan valley will start closing their beverage room doors today.

The Okanagan Hotel Association president, Ken Noble, said nearly all the beverage rooms in hotels in the valley will be closed. Noble said the hotels can not continue to pay beer parlor staff if there's no beer to sell.

The beverage rooms are closing down because of a distributors' strike at Okanagan Valley Distributors that has stopped the delivery of draft and bottled beer. Nineteen brewery workers are involved in that strike.

Okanagan Valley Distributors is an agent of Pacific Brewery Distributors, which is also strikebound. The Pacific shutdown has caused shortages in other parts of the province, mainly outside of Vancouver.

Lifestyles
'In Conflict'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labor Minister Bill King says that a conflict of lifestyles in the Slokan area of the West Kootenay has produced at least one recent "near-riot" and demonstrates the need for a broad view of human rights.

King said Saturday at a conference sponsored by the Human Rights Commission that "a very unhealthy situation" exists in his riding of Revelstoke-Slocan in which traditionalists have squared off against young newcomers to the area. He spoke to about 30 persons at the Greater Vancouver Ethnic Concerns Conference.

AIRLINES REQUIRE BAGGAGE TAGS

OTTAWA (CP) — Attacking the lost baggage problem, Canadian airlines will require passengers flying to the United States to place their names on all checked baggage effective Sept. 21. A. C. Morrison, president of the Air Transport Association of Canada, said Sunday.

Morrison said in a statement that the same requirement will apply to other destinations Jan. 1.

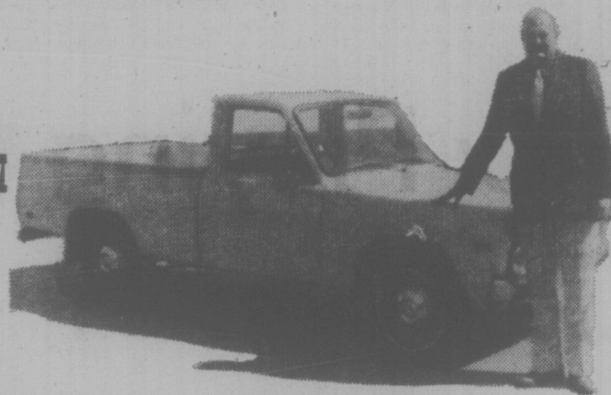

An air transport association official estimated earlier this year that Canadian airlines pay an annual bill of up to $6 million on claims for lost or damaged baggage.

U.S. airlines have announced they will not accept baggage after Sept. 21 unless the passenger's name appears on the outside.

The airlines will provide free baggage identification labels at ticket offices and airports to those passengers who need them, Morrison said.

He also recommended that passengers use cabin luggage tags on carry-on items.

Cal Has Praise for Pete's Perfection

Times News Services
Cal Murphy, the undefeated head coach of British Columbia Lions, couldn't say enough kind things about his quarterback, Pete Liske, after the Lions defeated Toronto Argonauts 22-10 Saturday night in a Canadian Football League game.

"Liske put on one of the finest passing displays I've ever seen," said Murphy. "He had control of the game all the way."

The 34-year-old Liske completed 20 of 30 passes for 297 yards and one touchdown to lead the Lions to their third straight victory under Murphy before 24,281 at Vancouver's Empire Stadium. Liske also had three other easy passes dropped by his receivers.

"We made a few changes after the first quarter to give Liske a little more time to throw," said Murphy, chomping on his victory cigar. "We decided to keep two backs in there to block against the Toronto blitz."

"With that little bit of extra time, Pete threw the ball almost perfectly the rest of the game."

Trailing 3-1 after the first quarter, the Lions scored two touchdowns in the second session and completely dominated the final 45 minutes.

Mike Rae, Toronto's starting quarterback, was sacked six times and his third-quarter replacement, Bill Bynum, was dropped once by a hard-charging B.C. defensive unit, anchored by end Bill Baker and tackle Don Wunderly.

Terry Bailey, a reserve running back, scored two touchdowns for the Lions, running back Wayne Moseley and flanker Ross Clarkson added the other major scores for the home team.

Eric Guthrie, who took over for Liske in the closing stages and hit Clarkson with a 25-yard scoring pass, completed the B.C. point total with four conversions, a 14-yard field goal and a single.

Toronto, in losing its fifth straight game, got a touchdown catch from Doyle Orange on a 10-yard pass from Bynum and a 53-yard field goal and conversion from Zenon Andrzejewski.

Russ Jackson, first-year head coach of the Argos, agreed that the Lions gave Liske plenty of time to throw.

"We knew that Liske could throw if he got too much time," said Jackson. "That's why we decided to go with the blitz so much."

"We needed to put pressure on Liske, but we didn't because we played our worst game of the season."

Victory lifted the Lions into a third-place tie with Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Conference, each with four wins and five losses.

They dropped to six points behind the leaders Sunday when Edmonton Eskimos moved into Hamilton, scored two first-half touchdowns and played as well as was necessary the rest of the way en route to a 17-3 triumph over the luckless Tiger-Cats.

It was the seventh win in eight starts for Edmonton and it snapped a first-place tie with Saskatchewan Roughriders, who have lost three times.

Quarterback Tom Wilkinson, the CFL's most valuable player last season, connected on first-half touchdown passes of 18 yards to George McGowan and 43 yards to Don Warrington.

Dave Cutler converted both TDs and added a 25-yard field goal.

Losing for the sixth time in eight games, and booed by many of the 22,144 fans, the Tiacs were limited to a third-quarter field goal by Ian Sumner.

Johnny Rodgers staged a spectacular display Saturday at Montreal as the Alouettes climbed into the Eastern Conference lead with a 19-13 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders, who started the game in a deadlock with the Montrealers.

Rodgers scored two second-half touchdowns and added a two-point conversion on a pass from Jimmy Jones as the Alouettes charged from behind before 28,879 spectators, the second-largest crowd ever to watch the Als play at home.

Jones completed 23 of 30 passes with Rodgers grabbing six of the tosses for gains totaling 66 yards.

Red Sox Playing The Con Game?

By The Associated Press

Are Boston Red Sox lacking confidence or just playing a confidence game?

The Red Sox have a four-game lead over Baltimore Orioles in baseball's American League East division but don't sound like they think they're the team to beat.

"I expect Baltimore to win every game they play. If they get beat, it's a bonus for us," said Boston manager Darrell Johnson, whose Red Sox rallied from a 5-1 deficit to beat Milwaukee Brewers 8-6 Sunday.

Boston's Rick Burleson agreed. "You look up at the scoreboard and you know the Orioles aren't going to lose another game the rest of the year. You just have hope."

Does that mean the Red Sox expect to lose their important two-game series against the Orioles beginning Tuesday night? Or are they merely luring Baltimore into a trap at Fenway Park?

And on the other side of the field are the pursuing Orioles, who sound like they're in the driver's seat, are they ready for their collision in Boston.

"We just have to go in there and play like we've been playing," said Don Baylor, who knocked in three runs in the Orioles' 9-3 victory over Detroit Tigers.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York Yankees beat Cleveland Indians 6-2, Minnesota Twins defeated Oakland A's 10-8, Kansas City Royals dumped California Angels 10-4 and Texas Rangers edged Chicago White Sox 9-8 in 13 innings.

Saturday, Boston and Milwaukee split a doubleheader, Milwaukee taking the afternoon game 9-6 and Boston the nightcap 6-3; Oakland downed Minnesota 8-5; Cleveland and New York split a doubleheader, Cleveland winning the first 7-1 and New York the second 4-3; Baltimore shut out Detroit 8-0, California beat Kansas City 6-2; California beat Kansas City 6-2 and Texas edged Chicago 9-7.

In the National League Sunday, Pittsburgh Pirates remained 5½ games ahead of Philadelphia Phillies by beating Montreal Expos 4-3, the Phils routed Chicago Cubs 13-7, St. Louis Cardinals dumped New York Mets 6-2, Houston Astros topped San Diego Padres 4-2, Los Angeles Dodgers downed Atlanta Braves 4-3 and San Francisco Giants split with Cincinnati Reds, winning 4-2 and losing 8-3.

Saturday, Chicago beat Philadelphia 4-1, San Francisco dumped Cincinnati 9-2, Montreal upset Pittsburgh 5-2, New York beat St. Louis 6-2 and Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 6-0.

Veteran Carl Yastrzemski, the team captain led by example for Boston with a two-run tie-breaking single in a three-run seventh inning.

Baylor, continuing to wallop Detroit pitching, led a two-run homer in the fifth and an RBI single in the seventh and Elrod Hendricks hit a two-run homer for the Orioles' 10th victory in their last 12 games.

The Yankees are squeezing as many victories as possible out of Jim (Catfish) Hunter's rich and talented right arm. Working on two days' rest, the New York Yankees ace pitched seven innings, surrendered five hits, striking out two and walking none.

Harmon Killebrew and Frank White slugged home runs in Kansas City's victory. Killebrew's two-run blast, his 13th of the season and 572nd of his career, capped a four-run first inning. White hit an inside-the-park homer an inning later.

Danny Thompson's three-run homer capped a six-run outburst that carried Minnesota past Oakland. The Twins outthrew the A's 15-12.

Walker Puts Gorge in Semi

Billy Walker went to town Sunday to shoot Gorge Molsons into the semi-final round of the Vancouver Island Soccer League's annual McGavin Cup knockout competition.

Walker broke loose for four goals at Heywood Avenue Park to guide Molsons to a 5-1 triumph over Duncan Powell's Men's Wear and into Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. clash at Royal Athletic park against Victoria West, a 1-0 winner Saturday over Oak Bay on Gary McLaren's tally with three minutes remaining.

Bob Bolitho was Sunday's top scorer here, notching two goals in the opening five minutes to launch London Boxing Club on the way to a 5-1 triumph over University of Victoria Vikings at Centennial Stadium.

Vikings sliced the margin to 2-1 before the intermission on a goal by Peter Saunders, but the Boxers were in command during the second half.

Steve Carroll, Frank Woods and juvenile player Joe Mendoca fired second-half markers as the Canadian champions breezed to the victory that gave them a berth in the other semi-final. It will be played Sept. 23 against Nanaimo, which rolled to a 6-0 victory over Gorge United Sunday at the Hub City.

Su Taylor counted the lone Duncan goal at Heywood and Danny Green notched the other tally for Molsons, who got excellent playmaking from George Hyne and Mark Robb, both returning to the Gorge side after a season with UVic.

Drizzly Triumph For Kathy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, bundled from head to toe against a biting wind and occasional drizzle, carded a two-under-par 69 Sunday to win the $40,000 Southgate Open golf tournament.

It was the 75th victory in the tall Texan's career and the $3,700 first place cheque increased her winnings for the year past $32,000.

Her 54-hole total of 213, even par for the 6,203-yard Leawood South Country Club layout, was four strokes better than runner-up Gerda Boykin, who fired a final-round 70.

Sylvia Bertolacci, the tour rookie from Argentina who held the lead after 36 holes, had trouble with her driver Sunday and limped in with a 75 for third place money of $3,200.

Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., finished with a 78 Sunday for a three-round total of 231. She collected $133.

Striking Patriots All Alone

By The Associated Press

Sympathy abounds among National Football League players for the New England Patriots' lonely strike stance.

Whether it can be turned into real support in the next 48 hours will likely determine the outcome of the players' latest rebellion.

The Patriots voted to strike and forced the cancellation of their Sunday exhibition against New York Jets in the belief that others would follow their demand that NFL owners and the players' union reach agreement on a new labor contract.

The followers did not materialize and now the Patriots face a lockout by management if they attempt to resume practice Tuesday for this weekend's NFL opener against Houston.

Team after team announced Sunday they supported the Patriots. St. Louis Cardinals even voted 30-16 to strike, but decided the vote was not strong enough and went ahead with their exhibition game against Denver, which the Broncos won 21-17.

"We do not enjoy this task which we have taken upon ourselves," said Randy Vataha, player representative for the Patriots, who voted 39-2 to strike. Vataha, holding a news conference in Foxboro, Mass., Sunday, called on the other 25 NFL clubs to join the Patriots on the strike line.

But with one week remaining before the NFL season opens there were no immediate takers. Player representatives for four teams — Buffalo, Denver, Cincinnati and Dallas — said their teams would not vote to strike, and others said they had no immediate intentions of taking strike votes.

All of which only escalates the hard feelings which have developed since Jan. 31, 1974, when the last contract between the NFLPA (the union) and the league expired. A strike last summer dissolved in failure without bringing a new agreement.

The impasse which started the problems remains. The union insists that league rules which bind a player to one team are illegal and should be settled in the courts; the league insists they must be negotiated.

The players' pension fund, to which the league and its clubs have not contributed since the last contract expired, could go broke this year if there is not a new agreement. Additionally, the union has lost members since clubs quit deducting dues from cheques and Garvey has acknowledged it is possible the union "will be busted."

The fans were already in the Orange Bowl in Miami Saturday night when New York Giants voted to delay the start of their game with the Dolphins for 30 minutes.

The Giants were convinced to change their minds and lost 31-13.

In other weekend exhibitions, Dallas Cowboys nipped Pittsburgh Steelers 17-16, Detroit Lions edged Cleveland Browns 27-24, Atlanta Falcons beat Philadelphia Eagles 17-14, Houston Oilers downed Chicago Bears 24-13, Cincinnati Bengals blanked New Orleans Saints 20-0, and San Diego Chargers battled Minnesota Vikings to a 14-14 overtime tie.

Honored Players Stung

By The Associated Press

The former Trojans celebrated USC Day in fine fashion — only they were on the losing side.

It was billed as USC Day Sunday as Pat Haden, former University of Southern California quarterback, played his last home game for the World Football League's Southern California Sun. Besides Haden, the announced crowd of 11,123 paid tribute to other former Trojans now with the Sun — Anthony Davis, John McKay and Jimmy Sims.

Haden, who leaves for England as Rhodes scholar after Sun's next game on the road, and Daryle Lamontica passed for 253 yards and Davis ran for 141 yards and two touchdowns.

But it was the Charlotte Hornets who came away with the victory, 30-22.

In other games Sunday, Memphis downed Shreveport 34-23 and Hawaii trimmed Jacksonville 33-15.

On Saturday, Birmingham beat San Antonio 33-24 and Portland clipped Philadelphia 25-10.

BO MEARNS WINNER IN JUMP-OFF

WOODINVILLE, Wash.

Bo Mearns of Victoria rode Flying Nun to a victory in a four-way jumpoff Sunday to capture the Gold Creek Grand Prix equestrian event.

Mrs. Mearns came out on top in the jumpoff against Joan Carrin of Oregon and Californians Lou Thomas and Linda Allen as she won the featured competition at this town just northeast of Seattle.

Bomber Back Beats Dolphins

VANCOUVER — Halfback Ellis Myashita rambled into the end zone for three touchdowns Sunday to spark Vancouver Blue Bombers to a 24-7 decision over Victoria Dolphins in a Big Four Football Conference game at Empire Stadium.

All Vancouver scoring came in the first half and Dolphins didn't get on the scoreboard until the middle of the fourth quarter when quarterback Spence Parker connected on a 10-yard pass to end Roy Sinden for a major. Theo Van den Berg kicked the convert.

The Victoria club did much better in the air than on the ground with totals of 103 yards passing and 22 yards rushing.

In the other game at the same site, Meralomas took over first place by hammering Renfrew Trojans, who had been sharing the lead, 41-7.

Next games: Sunday — Victoria Dolphins vs. Meralomas, Royal Athletic Park; Trojans vs. Cougars, Swangard Stadium.

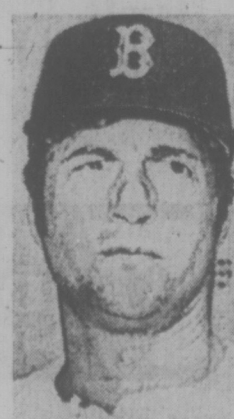

McCawley Leads Cowichan Win

Quarterback Ross McCawley scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal and a convert to lead Cowichan Timbermen to a 21-6 victory over Saanich Vampires in a Vancouver Island Canadian Football League game Sunday at Royal Athletic Park.

Brian Kitagawa connected for the other Cowichan major and Rich Foster scored the lone Saanich TD.

Oak Bay Farmer Construction meets Saanich Chew Excavating Hornets in the next league game tonight at 7:30 in the same park.

In Island Bantam League action Sunday, Juan de Fuca Tigers and Saanich Vampires fought to a 15-15 deadlock while Saanich Hornets stung Cowichan 42-0 at Cedar Hill Park.

CARL YASTRZEMSKI ... leads by example

Male tennis players, like women, apparently reserve the right to change their minds.

After saying earlier they would not go to Sweden for a semi-final series in the Davis Cup competition, Patricio Cornejo and Belus Prajoux pulled a switch Sunday and announced they would join the Chilean team in Baastad for the series against the Swedes that starts Friday.

Last week Cornejo and Prajoux joined Jaime Fillol in boycotting the matches because of death threats, mainly aimed at Fillol. Opponents of Chile's ruling government have threatened to disrupt the series and Swedish authorities have countered with massive preparations to protect visiting players.

Also in tennis, Mark Cox, the British player who now lives near Vancouver, chalked up a major triumph Sunday when he teamed with Betty Stove for a 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Sweden's Bjorn Borg and Australian Evonne Goolagong Cawley in the mixed doubles final of Carolina's International tournament at Charlotte. Mrs. Cawley also lost, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6, in the women's singles final to Martina Navratilova, the 13-year-old Czech who has asked for political asylum in the U.S., and Vijay Amritraj of India won the men's singles, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, over Romanian Ilie Nastase.

Alcos Win Finale

Alcos, who had already clinched the league title, finished off the Victoria and District Cricket Association regular season Sunday with a 129-run victory over Castaways at Beacon Hill Park.

Alcos reached 179 for the loss of eight wickets and Castaways were all out for 50. Bob McKay sparked the Alcos bowling and claimed his 50th wicket of the season by toppling six wickets for the loss of only 24 runs. Steve Hanson led Alcos batsmen with 46 runs. Roger Hale (29 not out) and Pierre Maggot-Gaudin (three-for-18) paced Castaways. On Saturday, Albion claimed second spot with a six-wicket victory over Incoogs at Beacon Hill and Nanaimo took a win by default over Cowichan.

Incoogs reached 138 runs all out with Eric Kjekstad setting the pace with 45 and Jim Wenman adding 40. Alcos Porter took four Incoog wickets for 38.

Tony Quarless led the way with 84 as Albion piled up 141 for four. Wenman took one wicket for 35 runs and the other three Albion batsmen were run out.

The cricket season in Victoria ends next weekend with final matches in the 40-overs competition.

Greenwood 6-2, 6-7, 6-4 while sisters Nina and Jennifer Bland bounced Miss Cameron and Barbara Johnston 6-1, 6-1 in the women's doubles final.

In the "B" section finals, Russ Hartley downed Russ Crum 6-3, 6-2 while Andrea Wiles tripped Val Scott, 6-4, 6-2.

Sweep Builds Chiefs' Optimism

Kamloops Chiefs, one of the surprises of the last Western Canada Hockey League campaign with a solid fourth-place finish in the Western Division, are looking for more playoff action this season.

The Harvey Roy-coached Chiefs expanded their pre-season optimism by sweeping a pair of exhibition games from Victoria Cougars at the weekend.

Robbie Flockhart's second goal of the night, with 26 seconds remaining, provided the Chiefs with a 6-5 triumph Saturday and Kamloops made it two straight with a 3-2 decision Sunday.

After qualifying for the playoffs for the first time in the club's history, the Chiefs bowed to the first-place finishing Cougars in six games in the WCHL quarter-finals last spring.

Two exhibitions don't make a season, but Roy had other reasons to smile. His defence showed solidarity and the offence seems to have greater depth than last season.

Holdovers Alan Young and Kelly Ferner and newcomer Dave Johnson scored Sunday's goals for Kamloops.

Dave Hatheway also counted twice Saturday with Young and Bob Waldren adding singles.

Curt Fraser and Kim Hillewich led Victoria's attack.

Both scored twice Saturday and each scored once Sunday. Jim Gustafson fired Cougars' other goal Saturday.

The Cougars also wound up with a bit of a loss off the ice.

Victoria's recently acquired bus broke down en route to Kamloops and the Cougars had to charter another bus to complete the trip.

Coach Pat Ginnell missed the trip because of bruised ribs. He suffered the injury while unloading a boat at his home.

Saskatchewan scout

Gerry Clarkson handled the team in Ginnell's absence.

In another development, Ginnell announced the signing of an agreement that establishes Prince Albert Raiders of the Saskatchewan Junior League as Cougars' No. 2 affiliate.

Nanaimo Clippers of the B.C. Junior League remain the top farm club.

Under terms of the agreement, the Cougars will send six players to Prince Albert.

Budget-Wary Canucks Start

Vancouver Canucks opened their pre-season training camp today at Memorial Arena with 47 hands on deck.

Rising costs in travel and accommodation have forced several changes from last year's camp as the team prepares for the National Hockey League season.

There'll be no rookie camp this time. Instead, Canucks will be in Victoria only one week (they were here two weeks last year) and workouts will involve 22 returnees along with 10 amateur draft choices, eight players from the defunct Seattle Totems of the Central Hockey League and a number of free agents.

In what also might be considered a sign of the times, all Canuck holdovers are signed.

Manager-coach Phil Maloney and special assistant Larry Popein are in charge of drills, which involved skating and official picture-taking today.

Workouts will continue until next Monday, then shift to the Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver.

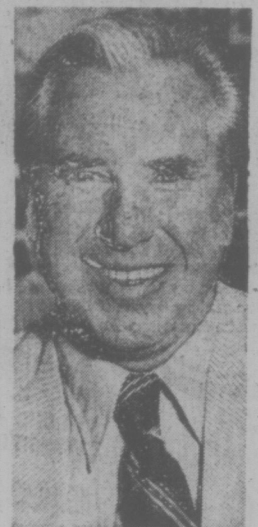

Meanwhile, Canucks will take 19 players to Los Angeles Friday for a Saturday exhibition game against the Kings.

They'll return to Victoria for exhibitions against California Seals Sept. 28 and Los Angeles Oct. 2.

Memorial Arena workouts this week are slated daily from 7:45 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. The public can watch free of charge.

Tulsa Oilers of the CHL and Fort Wayne Komets, a semi-pro team in the International League, are Canucks new farm clubs.

Vancouver will share operation of Tulsa with Atlanta Flames and will send between nine and 11 players to that club. The coach is former Canuck captain Orland Kurtenbach. Ex-Vancouver defenceman Adam Keller will coach Fort Wayne and will get about a half-dozen players from the parent club.

PHIL MALONEY
... the man in charge

Joining the holdovers in camp will be former Seattle players Dan Seguin, Danny Gloor, Jim Wiley, Dennis McCord, Barry Wilcox, Larry McIntyre and goalie Bruce Bullock and Dan Brady.

Among the rookies are several Western Canada Hockey League grads, including Rick Blight and Doug Murray (Brandon), Brad Gassoff (Kamloops) Bob Watson (Flin Flon) and Brian Shmyr, Al Fleck and Bob McNeice (New Westminster). Blight and Gassoff have signed pro contracts, as has left-winger Glen Richardson, a fourth-round Canuck draft choice from Hamilton of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior "A" series.

NO JOY IN BURNABY

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (Cp) — Peterborough Graymuns wrapped up their fourth consecutive Minto Cup junior lacrosse title by defeating Burnaby Cablevision 18-8 in the fifth game Sunday night.

After losing the first game of the best-of-seven series a week ago, Peterborough rallied to win the national championship 4-1.

Mo Jodoin paced the Graymuns with three goals. Randy Bryan, Gord Duncan, Bob Wasson, Mike Vitarelli and Dan Green scored twice each. Dan Dunn, Greg Luster, Gay McInnis, Paul Evans and Ken Byers each scored one as Peterborough goalie Fred Gardner shutout Burnaby in the final period.

Kevin Alwaxander picked up from Victoria McDonalds for the series, and Mike McLenghen led Burnaby with two goals each. Derek Dickson, Matt Aitken, Dan Perrault and Bob Cool, another Victoria addition, scored single goals.

"We got a good jump on them," said Burnaby coach Dan Mattinson. "We were controlling the loose balls and turnovers. You've got to play 60 minutes of lacrosse against this team, not 10. Once they start to control the ball, they'll kill you. It's their game."

Mattinson said he thought some of his players had not expected to win after Peterborough made a 20-3 comeback in the second game of the series.

"You've got to believe in what you can do. I don't think some of the players did."

Auguste Is Best in the Stretch

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Seattle entry Auguste, ridden by Larry Pierce, came from off the pace to win the $35,000-added British Columbia Derby Saturday at Exhibition Park.

Auguste caught Captain's Party, who had assumed the lead mid-way down the back stretch, in the late stretch and pulled away for a 1½-length margin at the wire. The winner covered the one and one-eighth miles in 1:49.1-5.

Auguste paid $6.50, $3.40 and $2.50; Captain's Party paid $3.30 and $2.40. Pampas Host, part of a Harold Barby-trained entry with Royal Morn, paid $2.30.

It was the second year in a row that the Derby, premier race for three-year-olds in the province, was won by an outsider. The Ontario colt Norland was last year's winner.

Auguste was the second favorite in the betting to Pampas Host, winner of the Asco Graduation at Exhibition Park and the Canadian Derby at Edmonton. Pampas Host finished six lengths behind Captain's Party.

The derby produced a one-race betting record for Exhibition Park, 9,604 fans on hand for the 10-race card bet $146,814 on the derby, compared with the previous record of $133,795 wagered on last year's derby.

First race — Claiming, $1,950, three-year-olds, six and a half furlongs. Time: 1:18.30. Gremlin Silver (J. Arnold) 3.30 3.00 Under Pressure (Rich) 2.20 Also ran: Zimv, J.C. Run, Ab-lah, Country Wine, Poppy's Jason, Canadian Ice, Tower Park. Time: 1:18.3-5. Quintella paid $11.80.

Stranmillis Star On Scoring Spree

Winger Brian Hanna set a blistering scoring pace at Royal Athletic Park Saturday night as Stranmillis College of Belfast ended a six-match visit to British Columbia by breezing to a 4-6 victory over Castaways of the Victoria Rugby Union.

Playing before about 200 spectators, Hanna accounted for 26 Stranmillis points by scoring four tries and kicking five conversions as the Irish students collected their fifth triumph in the six B.C. appearances.

Their lone defeat came in Victoria when they dropped a 12-7 decision to James Bay

Second race — Claiming, $1,950, three-year-olds, six and a half furlongs. Time: 1:18.30. Gremlin Silver (J. Arnold) 3.30 3.00 Under Pressure (Rich) 2.20 Also ran: Zimv, J.C. Run, Ab-lah, Country Wine, Poppy's Jason, Canadian Ice, Tower Park. Time: 1:18.3-5. Quintella paid $11.80.

Year's Best Pole Vault Highlight of Meet

An outstanding performance by pole vaulter Alan Kane of Vancouver Olympic Club, another top performance by hammer thrower Murray Keating and a dropped baton in the feature relay race highlighted Saturday's Autumn Track and Field Championships at Centennial Stadium.

Kane, a silver-medallist in the 1970 Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh who is preparing for next month's Pan-American Games in Mexico City, made the year's best vault in Canada. He scaled five metres (16'6").

Keating, Canadian record holder in the hammer, came up with a throw of 64.8 metres to easily defeat Canadian junior record holder Scott Neilson.

Feature event of the meet, which brought together 410 athletes in 92 events, was a special race between the national women's 4x100-metre relay team and a B.C. all-star team.

The national team lost when Joyce Yakubovich of Victoria and Joanne McTaggart of Saskatoon dropped the baton on the final exchange.

Barr Captures Title in PGA

PITT MEADOWS — British Columbia has been a happy hunting ground for Dave Barr, a 23-year-old from Kelowna.

Barr, who scored his first victory as a pro last month when he won the B.C. Open at Richmond, made it three triumphs in four B.C. events here Saturday with a one-stroke margin in the B.C.

Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Three strokes off the pace after Friday's opening round, Barr charged through Saturday's final round to a six-under-par 66 for a 36-hole tally of 137, one shot ahead of Surrey's Doug Robb, who three-putted the final green.

Bill Wakeham of Cowichan was at 141 and John Morgan of Victoria finished at 142.

Club Champions Retain Crowns

Eileen Anderson and Dale Shaw have retained possession of women's club championships at a pair of Victoria area golf courses.

Mrs. Anderson downed Pat Derry 4 and 3 in the match-play final at Royal Colwood, where Margaret Hutton-Potts captured the consolation crown with a victory over Terese Todd.

Miss Shaw collected her sixth successive crown at Glen Meadows when she stroked her way to a 6-and-5 triumph over Edna Hay in the match-play final.

Winners of consolation events at the North Saanich layout were Martha Patterson and Emma Silverberg while Doris Babcock topped the nine-hole section, in which Ella Jones won consolation honors and Barbara Crawford took the qualifying-round medal.

Rough Night at Races

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

It was wreck 'em night at Western Speedway Saturday but Gary Kershaw and Billy Hitchcox avoided the tangles to emerge the major winners.

Kershaw captured the 35-lap super-stock feature, pulling steadily away from points leader Tony Johnson, while Hitchcox, a 16-year-old rookie who only got his driver's licence last spring, won the claimer feature before 1,860 fans. It was Hitchcox's first main event victory.

In between there were a variety of spinouts, a couple of dandy pileups and two fires. Nobody was seriously hurt.

The first pileup came on turn three before the first lap was finished in the super-stock feature. That one sidelined Al Wade, although quick work by Wade's crew in replacing a broken radiator nearly got him back for the restart. However, a broken water pump finished him for the night.

Jerry Ferry survived that pileup, replacing a punctured tire in time to return, but wasn't so lucky in a lap-14 mixup with Jim Caldwell and Bill Price. He retired with a damaged front end. An electrical fire broke out in Caldwell's car, finishing him, but Price stayed in the running despite body damage and a bent frame. He finished fourth.

Fire also broke out in Jim Smith's car during a claimer heat. Johnson nearly lost the pits and bailed out.

CLOSING LAPS: Bobby Allison finished second, a car-length behind David Pearson, in the 100-mile first leg of the International Race of Champions stock car series at Brooklyn, Mich. Allison was eighth last weekend in the Canada 200 at Western Speedway. In another race on the same track, Tom Sneva won a 150-miler by less than a second over Johnny Rutherford. Defending Indianapolis 500 champ Bobby Unser broke his knee when he crashed at the end of the race.

Richard Petty charged from the brink of elimination for a split-second victory in the Delaware 500 Grand national stock car race at Dover, Del. He edged Richard Brooks and Benny Parsons for his 10th win of the season.

Victoria's Roy Smith failed to complete the weekend's Washington Racing Association super-modified event on the dirt track at Sky Valley Speedway in Monroe, Wash., but still clinched his first WRA points title. His closest rival, John Tharp, was unable to compete because of mechanical problems.

A Weak Whammy

Times News Services

A Nairobi witch doctor who regularly supplies curses for soccer teams may need a little more practice on baseball clubs.

A Baltimore radio disc jockey, Johnny Walker, located the witch doctor in Kenya Saturday at 3 p.m. Baltimore time and asked him to apply a curse to Boston Red Sox.

Baltimore Orioles are trying to catch Boston in the American League Eastern Division race.

At precisely 3 p.m. Saturday, Milwaukee Brewers scored six runs in their game against Boston to take a 7-2 lead and ultimately win 9-6.

But the whammy apparently wasn't powerful enough to last. The Red Sox came back for a 6-3 win in Saturday's second game, then beat Milwaukee 8-6 Sunday.

The Bridge Expert

One of the attributes of the expert player is his ability to interpret alerting signals that would not even be known or discernible to the average player. An example of this alerting signal can be evidenced in today's deal. East was the transmitter, and West the receiver.

North-South vulnerable. West deals.

The bidding:
West North East South
1♦ 2♦ Pass 3NT
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♥.

West, probably feeling that a spade lead might give South a present of a trick, chose to open the queen of hearts at trick one. Had West led a spade, our South declarer would have been set before he ever won a trick.

The opening heart lead was won by South's ace, after which he led a diamond and successfully finessed dummy's queen. He then re-entered the South hand via the ace of clubs and led his remaining diamond. When West put up the king, declarer allowed that card to win. On this trick East played the JACK of diamonds!

West now took a rather lengthy time to reflect on the situation. He knew that East still possessed the missing four of diamonds, for if declarer had held that card he surely would have captured West's king with dummy's ace, hoping for a 2-2 division of the four outstanding diamonds. And, from declarer's viewpoint, if the missing four diamonds were not divided 2-2, he could give away a third diamond lead, and use dummy's king of clubs as an entry for the cashing of the board's three remaining diamonds. Why, then, and East voluntarily played the diamond jack on West's king?

The only reason, West said to himself, was that East was trying to send a signal to West. This signal just had to be the "suit-preference" signal, whereby a player indicates his desire to have partner lead one suit, rather than another; and the play of an unnecessarily high card asks partner to lead the higher-ranking of the obvious suits.

So West, instead of continuing hearts, led the five of spades, East winning the trick with his queen. East returned his remaining spade, entrapping South's jack, and enabling West to cash four more spade tricks. So declarer incurred a two-trick set, owing to circumstances beyond his control.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Tuesday, Sept. 16

By SYDNEY OMAR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on romance, friendship, fulfillment of hopes and wishes. Social activities accelerate. Gemini, Sagittarius individuals are in picture. You are asked to do something for someone who seems a "scatterbrain." Do it — appearances are deceiving!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Get down to business. Be frank, specific, count change and perceive potential. You'll be in direct contact with professional superiors. You'll be asked questions, given specifications and you'll be expected to "take charge" and display willingness to handle responsibility.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect coincides now with improved communications, travel, a better understanding of those who speak a "different language." be ready for variety, unique relationship, dealings with another Gemini — and a Virgo.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Costs, time-and-motion dies could be featured. You get dividend from past effort, investment. You are able to make purchase which beautifies surroundings, makes loved one happy. Taurus, Libra could figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis on how you relate to "legal types." Means you may be asked to back what you state with documents, verifications, rights and permissions. Know it and don't get caught off base. Pisces, Virgo individuals are in picture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Develop contacts, build bridges which enhance security. Stick to basics. Review rudiments. Study Leo message. Do your homework. Older "crispy" individual may want to have you toe the mark. Capricorn, Cancer could be involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on change due to the finishing of a phase, a cycle. You out through red tape, obtain necessary documents. Another Libra — and an Aries — could figure prominently. Member of opposite sex is attracted to you and makes no secret of it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Obtain hint from Virgo message. Build on solid foundation. Overcome temptation to skip essentials or to accept what is flimsy, superficial. A bit of extra effort now will pay dividends. New start makes you more independent. You find outlet for creative abilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on brothers, sisters, short journeys and "flash" ideas. What was halfway forgotten could come back, not to haunt but to reward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Spotlight on possessions, what you give and take, what you can earn and invest. Be flexible, versatile. Individual with grandiose plans may have eye on your funds. Know it, have sense of humor about it, and protect yourself in clinches.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Lunar cycle is such that you should take initiative. Make contacts, be a self-starter. Highlight originality, independence of thought, action. Wear bright colors, be conspicuous. You win popularity contest and sense of timing improves. You'll be where you should be!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Talk with one who is connected with hospital, club, specialized organization. Dialogue now is important if you are to ally groundless fears. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius individuals figure prominently.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are in retrospective, spiritual, somewhat of a perfectionist and your own worst critic. June was important — in October, you break loose from emotional shackles, can travel, gain weight and socialize. Pisces, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. One who had "hold" on you is releasing grip — and that is all to the good for you.

"You've got a lot of pennies, Joe," said Bill, watching as the two boys checked their money. "They're two-thirds of the coins you have."

"That's right, Dad," replied Joe. "But look at Doug. Only a quarter of his are pennies."

"So he's in luck," Bill chuckled. "Anyway, you have 30 coins yourself and exactly half of all the coins the two of you have are pennies."

How many coins did Doug have?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Tom had $2.85.

The Real Face of Eve Revealed

FAIRFAX CITY (AP) — The woman portrayed in the movie The Three Faces of Eve says she has recovered from her rare mental illness after manifesting 21 different personalities over 23 years.

"I am confident that I am well," Chris Sizemore said in a telephone interview Sunday night after revealing publicly that she is the woman portrayed in the 1957 movie.

Mrs. Sizemore, 48, the wife of a construction electrician, said she had kept secret from all but her family, doctors and one friend the fact that she suffered from multiple personality.

But it has been a year since her last three personalities

"died," she said, and her doctor urged her to reveal her identity as part of her therapy.

Mrs. Sizemore's condition was diagnosed in 1952 after she had been under psychiatric treatment for a year by Dr. Corbett Thigpen, who was co-author of a best-selling book on the case. The movie, which brought actress Joanne Woodward an Academy Award, was based on the book.

It was Dr. Thigpen who advised Mrs. Sizemore to keep her condition secret, she said. "I think he thought he was doing the right thing for the patient but perhaps it was not right for me because I developed a guilt complex," she added. "My whole family was enclosed. We had no social life."

In the manifestation of her

... the real face

illness, Mrs. Sizemore was "taken over" at various times by 21 different personalities, each with a distinct character, habits, skills and physical mannerisms.

They came in sets of three, ranging from straight-laced housewife, to fun-loving party girl to seemingly well-adjusted, kindly mother.

One personality could not recall what happened to another, she said.

"If I had learned to sew as one personality and then tried to sew as another I couldn't do it," she said. "Driving a car was the same. Some of my personalities couldn't drive."

There have been only about 100 documented cases of multiple personality disorders recorded since the illness was first identified, said Dr. Arnold Ludwig, chairman of the psychiatry department at the University of Kentucky medical school and an expert on the phenomenon.

CHECK MATE FOR SPASSKY

PARIS (AP) — "I'm convinced the wedding will take place as expected," said the mother of a Frenchwoman that Soviet chess champion Boris Spassky has encountered difficulties in marrying.

Irene Stecherbatcheff told a reporter Sunday: "I don't see any reason that could lead to its cancellation. I'm getting ready to go to Moscow to attend."

Spassky and Marina Stecherbatcheff, 30, a secretary at the French embassy in Moscow, planned to marry Nov. 11. But the Frenchwoman was told to leave the Soviet Union before the date. Spassky has said he has lost the right to leave the country.

"Asked whether she thinks the Soviets are seeking to block Spassky's possible departure to France, Mrs. Stecherbatcheff said: "I can tell you that Boris has no intention to leave the U.S.S.R. He can't conceive of a life outside the country which he loves very much."

Soviet Dissident Arrested Again

MOSCOW — Andrei Amalrin, the Soviet dissident writer and historian released recently after five years of prison and Siberian exile, was arrested again Saturday night. Police told his wife he would be detained indefinitely.

In a telephone call to Western correspondents, Gysel Amalrin said uniformed and plainclothes police burst into the couple's tiny apartment and took Amalrin with them.

Amalrin, 37 had been living in Moscow without official permission since his release in May. He had been warned once to leave the Soviet capital — his long-time residence — and find some other place to settle.

The writer disregarded the warnings, however, contending that he had no other place to live.

KATMANDU, Nepal — A British team trying to climb Mt. Everest by the unclimbed southwest face pitched the fourth camp at 23,800 feet Sept. 11, according to a message received by the Nepalese foreign ministry Sunday.

The camp was pitched by expedition deputy leader Hamish MacInnes, Annapurna south peak conqueror Douglas Haslam, and Peter Broadman and Martin Boyesen.

SPRING CREEK, Nev. — Sue Pirtle Hays, the cowgirl who is expecting a baby in about a month, finished in a tie for fourth place Sunday in bronze riding at the $20,000 Girls Rodeo Association world championships.

Mrs. Hays, 22, was thrown from her bronco Saturday, but bounced up and assured reporters she was unhurt.

"Oh, it didn't hurt at all," she declared. "My doctor said it would be all right to keep riding as long as I didn't get kicked or stepped on," the Weatherford, Okla., college student said as she arrived for the weekend competition.

PORT MORESBY, Papua New Guinea — Bare-breasted native girls in grass skirts clapped and giggled with delight Sunday as Prince Charles stepped down from an Australian air force jet aircraft. He was dressed in the white tropical uniform of a Royal Navy lieutenant.

Papua New Guineans with feather headdresses and stone axes in their belts greeted him to the sound of drums in the searing heat at Port Moresby airport.

Charles' arrival in the capital of the wild and primitive eastern half of the island officially started the independence day ceremonies which culminate Tuesday in the final handover of power from Australia to the government of Michael Somare, known throughout the land as "The Chief." The blowing of conch horns will herald the festivities, ending 52 years of Australian rule.

Surgeons Back Away From Court Castration

SAN DIEGO (AP) — If a man chooses to be castrated rather than go to prison, is his decision really free?

This question apparently was not considered when hundreds of sex offenders had court-authorized castrations in California during the 1950s and 1960s.

But current concern over civil rights has created an atmosphere of extreme caution about permanent, life-changing operations.

So wary are local doctors that three convicted sex offenders, seeking castration to avoid prison, have had trouble finding a willing surgeon.

One of the three must return to court Tuesday. The other two are to appear later this month. A judge said he would send them to prison, possibly for life, or to a state mental hospital if they were not castrated by then.

All three chose castration in order to avoid imprisonment.

Government health officials say there are no national statistics or records of castration, but an Associated Press survey found no state outside California where the operation is currently used as a treatment for sex criminals.

"Oh no, that's cruel and unusual punishment," said Kendall Vick, Louisiana assistant attorney-general. "That couldn't pass constitutional muster in our state... it's clearly prohibited under our constitution's protection of the rights of the individual."

Even in California there have been no court-ordered castrations since 1970.

In castration, a man's testicles are removed, thereby sterilizing him and possibly reducing his sex drive. There is uncertainty in medical circles whether castration really reduces libido.

If Paul De La Haye, 45, Joseph Kenner, 45, and John Wesley Goebel, 38, had sought castration before 1970, there would have been little trouble getting approval. Several San Diego judges and the county urological society favored emasculation for untreatable sex criminals.

Costs of the castration would be borne by San Diego County. For about 20 years before 1970, some 370 castrations were done in California, most in San Diego County.

What changed the situation in 1970 was passage of the Mentally Disordered Sex Offenders Act, setting up psychological treatment in state hospitals.

Convicted sex offenders progress through counselling and group therapy until ready to return to society.

Those who do not respond to treatment are considered untreatable and are sent back to court for sentencing, usually to a state hospital or prison.

The three San Diego men, all convicted of sex perversion involving teenagers or young children, were ruled still dangerous after psychological treatment. All three, say their lawyers, came up with the idea of castration separately.

Kenner and Goebel were released last month into the custody of relatives in order to make arrangements for their castrations. De La Haye was not released. Instead, he was to undergo surgery under sheriff's guard.

Only Goebel, a wiry, goateed truck driver who is to appear in court Tuesday, has talked to reporters. He said he has contacted a half-dozen urologists and all had turned him down.

'Career' Officers Trimmed Back By U.S. Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time ever, the United States Army is forcing out of the service some regular officers who had intended making the army a career.

The 625 regular officers are among 2,138 officers who will be dropped from the service by the end of September as part of a move to bring the number of army officers to an authorized strength of 98,125 by June 30, 1976.

LEGS SEWN, POISON LINGERS

MUNICH (AP) — Surgeons have sewn back both legs of a 12-year-old West German boy who threw himself in front of a train in a suicide attempt, doctors said Sunday.

But an attending physician reported that Arno Kitzler still is in serious condition from the effects of rat poison he swallowed before being run over by the freight train three days before.

Surgeons at Munich University Clinic saved the boy's legs in a 10-hour emergency operation Thursday after he was flown to the hospital in a rescue helicopter.

Dr. Juergen Engert said Arno's legs will be six inches shorter and one will be lame, but the boy is expected to walk again if he survives kidney and liver damage from the poison.

The son of a locomotive engineer, Arno said he tried to kill himself because he failed sixth-grade exams in school.

Printers Reject 'Porno'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Meredith Corp., printer-publisher of such magazines as Successful Farming, Brides and Better Homes and Gardens, began printing two men's magazines this month.

And four workers whose tenure with the Des Moines-based firm totals 54 years have resigned or been suspended without pay because of their religious objections to the slick, nude-graced pages of the two new magazines.

"God didn't want me there printing that stuff or being any part of a company that is printing such pornography," says pressman Bob Griffin, 29, who started with the company when he was 18. He resigned.

"I told my supervisor that I thought Penthouse and Viva magazines were mocking God," says Bob Anderson, 30, who has been with the company for 11 years. He and Griffin said they will start a small printing firm to "do work for Christian people."

Meredith said it signed the printing contract with Penthouse International Ltd. of New York after Conde Nast Publications, Inc., took its printing of Vogue and House and Garden elsewhere.

The firm said the contract loss meant $7-million worth of press equipment would be idle and 225 jobs would be jeopardized — unless other contracts were taken on.

Two other workers, Larry Latham, 26, and Bill Mackin, 49, were suspended after they asked to be assigned to jobs not involving the two men's magazines, Meredith said.

"While the company respects these employees' personal convictions, it does not believe their refusals are justified," a Meredith statement said.

"If the founder of this company were alive today, he would not only refuse to print this filth, but he would also object to its distribution throughout the country," said Mackin, a 24-year employee and union officer who has asked that a grievance be filed.

"We're already known as 'Sin City' because of all the triple-X movies and massage parlors," he said. "This will make Des Moines become known as the fountainhead of porno literature."

Sing a Song of Service And Make Those Contacts

This being the start of "Victoria Jaycee Week" I really ought to zero in on that subject, yet any competent psychologist, I daresay, might diagnose my antipathy for such "service clubs" as a hold-over from the days when I associated them with acute physical and mental indigestion.

For more years than I like to recall it was my chore to spend an average of three noon-hours a week covering the luncheon meetings of Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and the rest, wading through the mandatory fare (oh, how I recall that wet, sliced chicken!) and recording for posterity the remarks of the speakers, as predictable and as perishable as the limp blue-plate special itself.

The hearty Babbitt-like atmosphere of these affairs, the chummy camaraderie of the businessman in the uneasy role of booster and joiner, has been the subject of so much wicked satire since Sinclair Lewis first cast his baleful eye on them that I need hardly add my ounce of salt to the wound.

It is enough to say that the climate induced by these solid, stolid citizens, banded together in the name of "service", yet each motivated by somewhat less altruistic considerations, left me with what may be a life-long revulsion. Why, only last week, in the small community in which I live, the local Chamber of Commerce took a vote on capital punishment and decided that the noose must come back, a typical enough example of what happens when merchants are introduced to group thinking.

In my day, and doubtless it's the same today, it was the practice of at least one of these clubs to affix small celluloid buttons to the lapels of the chaps, giving their name, nickname and line of business which, of course, is why most of them are there.

Bill was "insurance". Mac was "real estate". Slim was "ball bearings". Jim was "home appliances". The newcomer need merely glance at this instant identification to establish a bond of hale-fellow companionship and a potential business contact.

Of them all, however, none aroused my morbid interest as much as the Junior Board of Trade, now known as the Junior Chamber of Commerce or "Jaycees".

It was "Torchy" Anderson, a neighbor of mine and one of the great Canadian newspapermen who, having weathered an hour or two of their earnest hypocrisy, coined the deathless phrase, "No shirt too young to stuff." It has always seemed to me the perfect Jaycee motto.

My own fascination with the jolly junior executive set kept me tuned to their wave-length long after my superiors had gathered me a reprieve from an early death on the luncheon circuit.

I have watched with a professional's admiration the Jaycees' uncanny ability to get publicity by the tens of thousands of column-inches through such Mickey Mouse stunts as Clean-Up, Paint-Up campaigns, effective speaking courses and get-out-and-vote "drives" which must rank with "National Moth-Ball Week" and the "Eat More Broccoli" crusade as dedicated contributions to humanity.

The records do not show that anyone has ever cleaned-up or painted-up who wasn't going to do it anyway or that any one ever cast a ballot that wasn't to be cast in the first place, but such endeavors permit the Jaycees to dress up in funny costumes, get their pictures in the paper and keep them off the streets at night.

They also have the virtue of being absolutely non-controversial, pretty well meaningless and harmful to no one, which befits a group of young go-getters banded together in the hallowed name of good fellowship and commerce with the emphasis on the latter.

A good many of them are sponsored by their office seniors who are in Chamber of Commerce (Mayor Peter Pollen refers to it as "The Flat Earth Society") and know that there's nothing to help a growing boy in business like the contacts he makes over a gang lunch. This being the case, one could hardly expect them to do anything naughty or against the status quo.

But one of the most entertaining aspects of the service clubs and particularly of the Jaycees is their curious political outlook. Their creed puts them for "free enterprise" (they are also strongly in favor of God, the law and motherhood) and they are thus opposed to government "interference" in social welfare.

So you find the familiar pattern of token, charitable work being conducted by businessmen, young and old, whose idea of "service" is to dabble as amateurs in work that cries out for comprehensive state control. It is the kind of thinking prevalent in every service club, that leads to such ultimate lunacies as the Red Feather drive in which deserving agencies, dealing with people in their trouble, invariably ask for less than they need, invariably get less than they ask for.

The so-called "civic leader", for example, who will fight like the devil against public taxation for the guaranteed care of the sick or the underprivileged will think it quite consistent to put up his name as chairman of a service club campaign fund that can mean no more than a drop in the bucket for the cause in question.

But when you see young men fitting themselves so snugly into this mold, enjoying the self-righteousness of "service" in what is really a club for promoting their own careers, it makes one grieve a little and, indeed, to wish that they might do a little clean-up, paint-up job on their ideals.

Whale Well Enough To Go This Week

A whale being held by Pedder Bay Marina for shipment to a Niagara Falls, Ont., exhibitor will be well enough to move this week, according to the federal fisheries department in Vancouver.

A spokesman said the killer whale — probably the last to be captured in B.C. waters for commercial purposes — is eating 90 pounds of herring a day and plans for the move by Air Canada are under way.

He said there was no question of a deadline for the whale's removal, although the provincial department of recreation and conservation had said earlier the creature must be moved by Tuesday.

The federal permit allows the sale of the whale in Canada and names John Holer, of Marineland, Niagara Falls, as the buyer.

Bob Wright, president of Sealand and Pedder Bay Marina, said it was "total bunk" that the whale was actually going to be shipped to a California buyer, as declared by Rod Manning, of the Greenpeace Foundation.

Wright said Greenpeace people — who campaign to save whales from extinction — make lies and innuendoes as a means of keeping the cause alive because they had failed to halt the Pacific whaling fleets during the summer.

Wright said he would himself sue Holer if he learned the whale was actually going to be sold in the U.S.

The federal fisheries office said Holer, whose facilities were inspected last Friday by a member of the Vancouver staff, is enlarging his pool installation to provide for a third whale.

Counterfeit Bills Seized

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce officials have turned over $1,800 worth of counterfeit U.S. $50 bills to Vancouver police after the bills were deposited in a Victoria bank.

Made of inferior paper, the bills were found to be counterfeit after being sent to the bank's main Vancouver branch Thursday.

Victoria police said the money was part of $1,999 deposited by a woman whom they would not identify, who obtained the money in Chile in a real estate deal. They said no one has been charged.

Colored threads normally embedded in legal U.S. currency are only inked onto the bogus $50 bills.

SPECTATORS lined the course for all events of the annual Gorge canoe races on Saturday and Sunday. At left, Dennis Kirkwood and Floyd Haller of Vancouver, winners of the senior men's event, portage their canoe from Portage Inlet to Esquimalt Harbor. Winners of the senior women's event, Joan

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

House prices have gone up about 15 per cent during the past year but have levelled off now, Victoria Real Estate Board president Eric Charman said today.

Further moderate price increases can be expected after buyers adjust to the new mortgage interest rates, which are in the range of 11.75 to 12 per cent.

"I do not foresee any decline in house prices or in interest rates in the next year," he said.

"Unless there is a dramatic decline in the rate of inflation, prices and interest rates will continue to rise."

Charman made the comments in releasing an eight-month report on Victoria real estate sales.

The report showed sales under the multiple listing service totalled $95.8 million for the first eight months of this year, up 63.8 per cent from the same period of 1974.

Total number of units sold was 1,832, up about 50 per cent from 1,281 in the corresponding 1974 period. Average unit price was $50,670, up 10.7 per cent from an average sale of $45,730 at the same time last year.

However, the 10.7 per cent cannot be taken as the increase in house prices, Charman said. The figure is the average sale for a wide range of properties, including condominiums, lots and apartment buildings.

The only guide to the increase in house prices is by the observation of realtors, he said.

On average, they report an increase of about 15 per cent for houses, although this varies with the type of house.

Shirley Philips, manager of Homefinders Wall and Redco, said bidding is brisk on houses under $30,000 but surprisingly slack on new homes in the range of $55,000.

"Any good house coming on the market under $50,000 will attract a buyer very quickly," she said.

"The real surprise has been that some very good new homes are not moving at all. There are some real bargains available in that type of housing."

Monthly payments are higher for homes in the $60,000s than for those at lower prices and this is stopping many families from buying this type of housing.

Al Lee, manager of Block Bros., Blanshard, said real estate sales continue to be quite strong despite the higher mortgage interest rates.

"With the rates this high, sales are good for this time of year," he said.

Lee said there appears to be less resistance to 11.75 to 12 per cent money this time around. Resistance was stronger at this time last year when the mortgage interest rate soared from 11 per cent to 12.5 per cent.

The realtors expect house prices to be stable over the winter months with some moderate price increases expected early in the new year.

Wiggle Variety For Mall

Construction on the second phase of the Government Street Mall starts next Monday, and this time there may be a bit of a wiggle in the widened sidewalks.

City engineer John Sanson said today his staff is discussing with the contractors the possibility of changing plans to inject some variety and interest in the decorative tile surface.

This might be achieved through indentations in the curb lines, or perhaps even tiles of contrasting colors, he explained.

"Basically we want to get away from the straight-line effect which many people seem to have found boring in the first phase," Sanson said.

The city engineer also indicated that it may be possible to make minor alterations in the work already done on the first three blocks, to soften the somewhat clinical perspective.

Meanwhile, his department has managed to obtain from the city of Seattle the molds to make cast-iron benches of the old-fashioned curly variety. About a dozen of these benches will be installed along the mall by the spring.

City traffic engineer Dave Campbell said where construction resumes one lane of Government between Fort and Yates may be kept open to traffic for the first week or so.

Southbound traffic on Government will be diverted via Johnson or Yates; the three southerly blocks already mail-converted, between Humboldt and Fort, will stay open to circulating traffic, and Wharf will remain open to two-way traffic.

UVic Buildings Noisy, New Methods Needed

University of Victoria lecture, laboratory and library facilities have structural defects that make them too noisy for some purposes.

A survey by physicist Dr. Walter Barsa, a specialist in sound, showed some areas to be better than suspected and others that were worse, acoustically speaking.

"We learned a lot in making the survey and I hope the information on different rooms will be of interest to those concerned," Barsa said.

Some areas may be improved by installation of sound-absorbing or reflective material, depending on the deficiency. But the report pointed to the need for improved techniques in designing university buildings in future.

Some rooms were found to be "too reverberant for good intelligibility of speech, especially with small audiences," the report said.

MacLaurin building lecture theatre is "acoustically too dead for satisfactory use as a concert hall and not even very satisfactory for lectures," it declared.

Some of the rooms contain noisy lighting and ventilation equipment, admit noise from sources outside or have such cially with small audiences," the report said.

MacLaurin building lecture theatre is "acoustically too dead for satisfactory use as a concert hall and not even very satisfactory for lectures," it declared.

Some of the rooms contain noisy lighting and ventilation equipment, admit noise from sources outside or have such noise-producing activities, as computer machines.

In the new McKinnon sports centre ventilation creates a high level of noise in some areas, especially the main gym, and steps to muffle this are being taken. But the report urges money be spent on a consulting firm's recommendation for further improvement.

MacLaurin 144 lecture theatre is satisfactory for speech but inadequate for music — a dead room — the survey found.

Other music rooms in the building and tape listening or recording rooms are not satisfactory.

McPherson library is generally acceptable, but basement rooms used for television studio and media services suffer from exterior noises.

Cunningham building has generally high noise levels; Corbett building is generally satisfactory; Elliott building is noisy in all areas; Clearhue building has specific areas of high noise level, and the colleges are generally acceptable but with variation between Craigdarroch and Lansdowne.

Mallard Can't Find Takers

Municipalities and regional districts will be asked to support a detailed study of operating treatment plants that convert domestic waste and sewage into compost.

The study proposed by environmentalist Derrick Mallard would involve visits to 20 British, European and U.S. treatment plants, compilation of the results in audio-visual form and an assessment of costs and revenues.

Mallard presented his plan to provincial ministers of housing, municipal affairs, agriculture, mines and petroleum resources and lands, forest and water resources in July. None was willing to support the study, which Mallard estimated would cost $10,823.

He said there was no response from Municipal Affairs Minister Jim Lorimer or Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson. Resources Minister Roy Williams replied, but offered no help; Mines Minister Lex Mimsick said he would consider the request if it came to cabinet, and Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich suggested specific areas of study, but did not commit himself to support or rejection of the idea.

It would be local jurisdictions that would initiate and construct such facilities, although the provincial government is expected to provide leadership and therefore the funding of surveys, Mallard suggests.

The operating plants recover salvageable materials and process sewage and garbage for agricultural use.

"We should be looking upon waste as resources," Mallard said. "Some way or other I intend to get that study completed."

He suggested that if the provincial government would not support him, he would go elsewhere.

"If the NDP won't support it, then maybe I'll go after other bodies — other parties and private sources. Waste is a non-political issue," he said.

A model recovery system assembled through an Opportunity for Youth grant during the summer was exhibited recently at the legislative buildings and was received favorably. Mallard said great interest was shown at the technical level by departmental staff members.

Women Reach Across the Border

I was down at Blaine on Sunday as one of more than 300 women from the states of Washington and Oregon and from British Columbia, who met at the Peace Arch in a "hands-across-the-border" gesture for International Women's Year.

Sponsored by the business and professional women's clubs of the three areas, the gathering also included representatives of state and provincial governments and other women's organizations, as well as many public spirited women interested in IWY but who do not belong to any organized group.

Early Sunday morning, following a Canadian-American Friendship banquet in Seattle on Saturday night, a caravan of cars left that city to meet a Canadian caravan at the Peace Arch at 1 p.m.

The sun was shining, skies were a clear blue. The Peace Arch stood out in all its white glory, in a setting of green lawns and bright late-summer flowers.

Scarlet-coated men and women of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and men from Whidbey Island Naval Air Station presented the colors. There was a tree planting ceremony in which the president of Washington State BPW Clubs, Virginia Foust, and the president of clubs in British Columbia and Yukon, Lorraine McFarley, took part. British Columbia's minister of consumer services, Hon. Phyllis Young, represented Premier David Barrett at the ceremony and Washington State Governor Evans by his secretary of state, Bruce Chapman.

An added attraction was the display set up by Lyn Pearson, co-ordinator of the mobile information and resource unit that has been travelling throughout the province this summer as a part of Canada's IWY program.

It contained information on the status of women and on rights, services and legislation pertaining to women in our province and in Canada.

This is not the first time members of BPW clubs have gathered at Blaine for a "hands-across-the-border" ceremony.

Back in 1920, at dedication of the Peace Arch, Lottie Bowron, founding president of the Kootenai Club, later to be named the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, and Lulu Fairbanks, then president of the Seattle Club, clasped hands across the border and pledged eternal friendship between all women of the two countries.

Forty years later, that ceremony was repeated, again with hundreds of women present from both sides of the border and with Miss Bowron and Miss Fairbanks again clasping hands and renewing the friendship vows.

This Sunday's gathering at the Peace Arch was one of several planned for IWY by business and professional women's clubs along the border between British Columbia and Washington State.

Cranbrook and Trail had plans to meet with the clubs in Idaho, Grand Forks with Republic, Wash., and away up north, Whitehorse hoped to shake hands with the women of Haines. Similar gatherings were held all along the border, right to the East Coast.

Closer to home, members of the Port Angeles Club were here on Sunday to join with Victoria Club members and with members from Duncan and Sidney, in a day-long outing.

Hostess for the day was Mable Dean, recently elected president of the local club and in charge of arrangements was the second vice-president, Joan Currie.

The program included a visit to "Our Hidden Heritage", an interesting presentation of women in British Columbia history, mounted in the provincial museum at present.

There were drives around the city, concluding with a tour of Ann Hathaway's Cottage and dinner at Olde England Inn.

While yesterday's gathering here was planned as part of the "hands-across-the-border" program for IWY, it is a continuing event, alternating yearly between Port Angeles and Victoria.

This strong bond of friendship with a neighboring club across the Strait of Juan de Fuca started more than 40 years ago when Victoria Club was instrumental in organizing the Port Angeles Club.

The yearly visits have been highlights of both clubs' programs since that time.

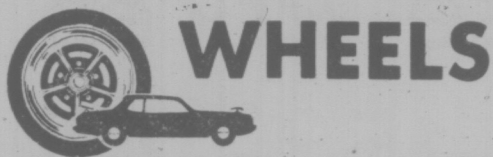

FOOTNOTE—You will perhaps remember a story I wrote back in July about Bob Scott and the flowers he tends so carefully in gardens at Rose Manor, that attractive residence for elderly women on McClure Street.

I had a telephone call from Scott the other morning telling me the beds of annuals he was so carefully watching when I interviewed him are now at the height of their bloom.

"It's a grand sight," he said.

Then he added an open invitation to anyone who loves flowers to come and see them.

You'll find him somewhere in the grounds at Rose Manor most any time during the day and when you do I'm certain he'll give you a personally conducted tour and he'll tell you the name and the history of every plant and shrub you'll find there.

WHEELS

By MICHAEL LAMM

Dear Mike: I have a 1970 Trident with the Ford V-8. The Trident is a British sports car and is very rare in this country. I've only seen one other, and although the body looked similar, the engine was a V-6 and the chassis was completely different from mine. Do you know any clubs or companies where I can get more information about Trident cars?—THRU A GLASS.

Dear Thru: You might try the manufacturer: Trident Cars, Turrett Lane, Ipswich, Suffolk, England. I know of no Trident clubs. You have one of the early Tridents with the 289-cid Ford engines and Austin-Healey-type chassis. Later Tridents used the British Ford V-6 and mostly TR-6 chassis parts.

Dear Mike: The air-conditioning compressor on my 1973 Chrysler rocks back and forth when it's engaged, and it's also noisy at idle speeds.

The dealer tells me they're all this way and there's nothing he can do to smooth it out. Is that true?—ROCKIN' AIR.

Dear Air: It's true that many 2-cylinder compressors used in Chrysler Corp. cars tend to rock and make noise at low engine speeds. Except for being annoying, there's nothing harmful in this. Any remedy, successful or not, wouldn't be worth the cost.

Dear Mike: I'm a young widow and, about a month ago, I bought a 1969 Japanese import. When it boiled over, I took it back, and the dealer's mechanic told me I had ruined the thermostat by running water in the radiator instead of antifreeze. Is this possible?—YOUNG WIDOW.

Dear Widow: No. It's better for your cooling system to fill it with about half and half water-antifreeze, but water alone won't ruin a thermostat.

Apples Just Great For Any Meal

As apples become available at lower prices the homemaker serves them at any meal and encourages their use as mid-morning and afternoon snacks. An apple does not lessen the appetite for the next meal, though it does give renewed energy to keep active for a couple of hours. It also aids in keeping teeth and gums healthy which cannot be said of many snack foods.

First about apples: remember they have been handled many times before you buy them, accumulating grime, dust and dirt. Wash them well, dry and polish before putting them into lunch kits or setting them out in a basket for help-yourself snacks.

Children should be encouraged to eat the skins of apples, but should be taught to avoid the core and the seeds. Wasting apples by taking one bite and throwing away the remainder should be discouraged. You will do better by using the fruit at mealtime when you can be sure it is eaten.

For school lunches it may be wise to chop apple and cheese together, coat with a little lemon juice and put between slices of wholewheat bread spread with soft margarine or peanut butter. Some children will not take time to eat a whole raw apple; others do on them. You know which you have to deal with.

At home lunches for children make use of apples in salads, perhaps twice a week. Here again, time is likely to be short so prepare the salad complete in the last minutes before their arrival.

School Lunch Salad
1 cup shredded green lettuce or shredded green cabbage
1 tsp chopped parsley
1 cup chopped sweet apple
1 tsp lemon juice
1 tsp soy oil
1/4 cup ground raw peanuts
1/4 cup cheddar cheese, diced beet slices yogurt as dressing
Combine all except the beet slices, remembering to chop the shredded vegetables and chopped apple at once with the lemon juice and oil to prevent vitamin losses.

Arrange salad on 2 or 3 plates according to appetites; decorate each salad with beet slices and a few more ground nuts.

As September brings more and more squash fruits from the plants we devise ways of using them.

Fortunately they team well with apples, so that halved squash stuffed with an apple-cheese mixture turns into a delicious side dish for any supper table. Decorative too if you have an eye for color.

Squash Stuffed and Baked
4 cups diced apple
1 tsp brown sugar
1 tsp lemon juice
1 tsp finely chopped onion
1 tsp chopped mint
1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese
4 sections of squash soft margarine
chopped parsley
Almost any squash will do at this time of year. They need to be still less than mature, but firm enough to hold their shape when baked. If larger squash are used divide into four serving-size portions each having enough of a bowl shape to hold the stuffing.

Prepare the apple: mix at once with sugar, lemon, onion, cheese and mint.
Remove seeds and fibre from squash; sprinkle lightly with salt.
Set squash cut side up into a casserole or other dish having a lid, or capable of being covered closely with foil to keep in the steam. Pile the stuffing into the prepared squash. Top each with a knob of soft margarine.
Pour an inch of boiling water into the casserole, cover with lid or foil as closely as possible.

HILDA BEASTALL

Bake in fairly hot oven at 190-degs.C. for an hour, or until squash are tender to fork testing.

Sprinkle tops with chopped parsley and serve hot.

Next comes a quite different use for apples, this time as a dessert rolled up in pastry, which is a nutritious part of the dish though not daily fare for most of us.

APPLE ROLL

Oven at 177-degs.C.
Apple filling:
2 1/2 cups chopped apples
2 tbs soft margarine
1/2 cup seedless raisins
2 tbs brown sugar
1/4 tsp ginger
Pastry:
2 1/2 cups unbleached flour
3 tbs wheat germ
1 tbs brewers' yeast
3/4 cup soft margarine
1 slightly beaten egg
3 tbs lemon juice and pulp
1/4 cup (approx.) chilled water

Sift dry ingredients into bowl. Cut in margarine with knife, then with fork add egg beaten slightly with lemon juice.
Add only enough chilled water to bind dough. Use hands for a few minutes to gather all together. Chill in refrigerator, covered, while preparing filling.

Filling preparation: Chop apples and brown in skillet or heavy saucepan with the margarine, about 5 minutes.
Add and mix in the raisins, sugar and ginger. Remove from heat; set aside to cool.
Cover rolling board with waxed paper; cut another piece same size. Halve the ball of dough; remainder will keep a week closely wrapped in refrigerator, not freezer.

Roll dough out thinly between the two sheets of waxed paper. No sticking, no breaking to clean. Make a rectangle by patting and shaping-in the rough edges.

Spread fruit over dough leaving an inch margin on all sides. From one long side, roll up as tight as possible, pinching ends together with wet fingers to seal.

Bake in moderate oven at 177-degs.C. for 45 minutes or until browned. Serve sliced with Oregon-grape syrup or blackberry juice. This is good either warm or cold.

Apple slices fried in bacon fat can be a treat with either sausages or bacon; and apple sauce was considered a dietary necessity with roast pork, roast duck and fried pork chops.

Slightly sweetened applesauce is a much better topping to go with wholewheat pancakes, and waffles than sugar or syrups; and even works as a salad dressing in place of vinegar.

RAPE: 1 IN 10 IS REPORTED

VANCOUVER (CP) — To whom can a rape victim turn?

Penny Fuller, a counsellor for Vancouver's Rape Relief, says hospital staff and doctors rarely show much sympathy toward a woman who has been raped.

"The medical profession's attitude is very cold. I've had victims the doctors never spoke a word to — they spoke over her, around her and through her, to the nurse, the police, or me."

Miss Fuller does have some cautious praise for Vancouver city police. Or, about half of them, she said.

"Since I've been working at Rape Relief I've been really impressed by how gentle some policemen can be. They take a lot of time with the victim, explain why they must ask certain questions — are really open."

Then there is the other 50 per cent who are harsh and treat a woman as though she were a pathological liar.

"We've had people put through the wringer just by phoning the police to report a rape. The woman who answers the phone asks such questions as 'Are you drunk?'"

And that's where Rape Relief comes in. The six full-time counsellors are available on a 24-hour basis to help women whether or not they want to report the attack to the police. If the rape is reported a counsellor will accompany the woman to the police, hospital and through court proceedings.

Last year Rape Relief helped 158 victims. Workers get referrals from police, city prosecutors, hospitals and crisis centres which have had initial contact with the victim.

"That's what we deal with most at Rape Relief," said Miss Fuller. "After the crisis is over we have to help victims cope with their guilt feelings of 'What did I do to invite this?' or 'What kind of person does he think I am?'"

Victims range from small children to 84-year-old women. About 80 per cent of the victims have had some previous contact, however casual, with their assailant.

But not every rape case is reported. Police conservatively estimate one out of 10 cases is reported to authorities.

Miss Fuller said that accompanying the woman through the "whole hospital, court, police procedure is the most vital thing we do." But Rape Relief also gets calls "maybe 20 years ago, and from women who were raped never got a chance to talk it out."

Grooms Go Short?

DEAR ABBY: This might sound crazy, but how come people don't give showers for men who are getting married? Brides get linen showers, kitchen showers, lingerie showers, and all kinds of showers. But grooms never get anything.

Women are now screaming for equal rights, so how about giving men equal rights? A man who's about to be married could use some new pyjamas, shirts, underwear and even spark plugs and fan belts.

Well, Abby, what do you say? — For Equal Rights

DEAR FOR: I'm all for it. But where have you been? Not long ago I published a letter from a man whose wife left him and took everything; so his pals at work gave him a shower to help him set up in housekeeping. Bravo!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 39-year-old woman who is engaged to a wonderful man, age 40. He has three fine children and has been a widower for two years. He is very clean cut, considerate, and I think I'm the luckiest woman in the world.

Now, my problem: He frequently says, "my wife," when referring to his deceased wife. I think he should call her his late wife. Also, he is very close to his late wife's parents and he refers to them as "in-laws." Are they not his "former in-laws?"

Am I being small-minded, jealous and unreasonable to feel as I do, or am I justified? I want to be fair. I certainly don't want to damage our relationship, but this one habit of his is driving me up a wall. Is this worth mentioning? — NEEDS SOME WISDOM

DEAR NEEDS: Anything that drives you up a wall is well worth mentioning. But first you must realize that his former in-laws will always be a part of his family because they are his children's grandparents; so don't demand that he refer to them as "my former in-laws." But do tell him that he'd better start referring to his late wife as just that because you will be his wife soon.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a grandmother has to babysit with grandchildren who are disobedient and disrespectful?

I have two married sons who each have two little boys — all under 10. The sons of one family are a pleasure to be with. They are well-mannered and obedient, and I love sitting with them either at my own home or at theirs.

The sons of the other family are just the opposite. The boys are mouthy, rude, and they actually abuse me. I don't even want them in my home because they are so wild and destructive.

I have flatly refused to babysit for the boys who give me a hard time, and now I am being criticized by the whole family.

Do you think I should treat ALL my grandchildren alike when they behave differently? And am I wrong to favor those who are manly and cooperative? — CRITICIZED

DEAR CRITICIZED: Turn a deaf ear to the criticism, I'm with you.

'Displaced Homemakers'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Yvonne Burke (Dem.-Calif.), has introduced legislation to provide counselling, training and services to "displaced homemakers," primarily women who must suddenly earn their own living after years of depending on someone else.

The bill was to be introduced today on the senate side by John Tunney (Dem.-Calif.).

It would provide a central bureau where the homemaker seeking an income can go for help in gaining admission to existing public and private job training programs. She would receive counselling and education in consumerism, nutrition, health care and financial management.

Paddles Stir Up Gorge Raceway

Competitors came from as far away as Eugene, Ore. for the seventh annual Gorge races held on the weekend by the Victoria Canoe Club.

The 10-mile senior men's event, which included a portage from Portage Inlet to Esquimalt Harbor was won by Dennis Kirkwood and Floyd Haller, two Vancouver fire-fighters. Stan Luzzi and Dave Thompson of the host club placed second. In third spot were Fred Pritzer, who had won the event for two consecutive years, and Wayne McNab, both of Ladner.

Joan Trill of VCC teamed up with Tricia Daly of Ladner to win the senior women's event. Second came Carla Pritzer and Lee McNab of Ladner, edging out Pat Christenson and Pat Gallbraith of VCC.

Three VCC crews swept the field in the Centennial event which requires the combined ages of crews be 100 or more years.

The event was won by Frank Johnson and Dick Kirby, runners-up were Walter Neilson and Bob McInnes. In third place were Arthur Lawson and Olive Vesey.

A six-man crew from Vancouver, captained by Pritzer, won the Voyageur race. Bob Strang captained a Ladysmith crew to second spot. A VCC crew, captained by Erich Schulz placed third.

Stan Luzzi and Joan Trill were winners of the mixed event, beating out Fred and Carla Pritzer. Bob Strang and Tricia Daly came third.

Chavez Now In Lead

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Union is slightly ahead of the rival Teamsters in representation elections following the first major test of California's landmark farm labor election law.

But the focus of growers and unions now switches to the state Agricultural Labor Relations Board which begins Tuesday to consider challenges and disputes to some elections.

Announced results of elections held through Friday show the UFW has won the right to represent approximately 4,500 workers at 24 farms while the rival Teamsters picked up 14 contracts representing about 4,000 workers. About a dozen other contracts are in dispute.

A major dispute over ballots from elections at the large Western Growers Association Farms should be decided this week. The Teamsters, who now have the contracts at the farm, want the ballots counted on a state-wide basis, while the UFW is demanding a ranch by ranch count.

An agreement between the rival unions to allow the counting of ballots for Bud Antle, Inc. in the Salinas Valley resulted in a Teamster victory. Chavez immediately denounced the election as "crooked."

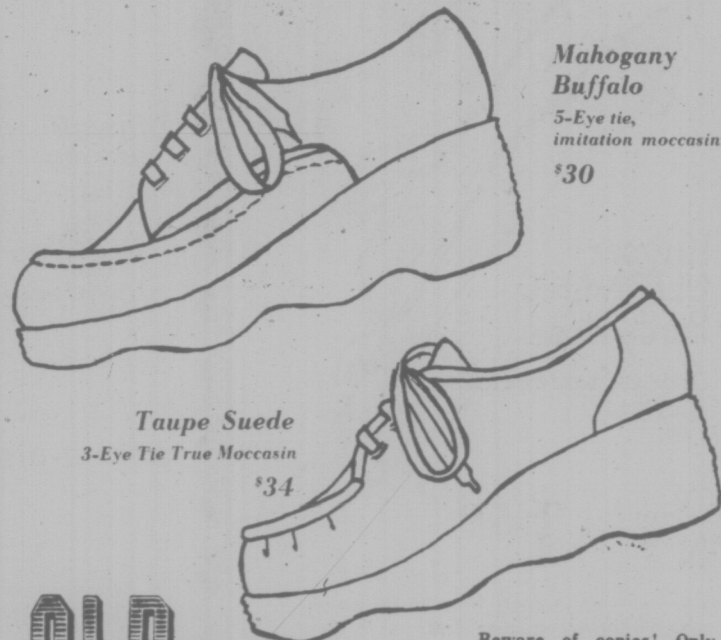

A hearing on the Western Growers question has delayed indefinitely a decision on disputed ballots at the E & J Gallo wineries in Livingston, currently represented by the Teamsters, where an election was held Wednesday.

New 'Natural' Substance Claimed Cure for Insomnia

BALTIMORE — Researchers at the Maryland Psychiatric Institute in Catonsville have found a natural, non-addictive substance which provides insomnia with more restful sleep than the addictive prescription drugs now being sold.

The substance, an amino acid called L-Tryptophane, is present in many common foods, including meat and leafy green vegetables. According to researchers, L-Tryptophane given the substance fall asleep twice as fast as they would without it. They sleep about 45 minutes longer than usual for them.

Dr. Althea M. I. Wagman, director of psychophysiology, at Catonsville, said at a conference Saturday here that L-Tryptophane's principle advantage over drugs, in addition to being natural and non-addictive, is that it does not disturb the natural patterns of sleep.

During the course of a normal sleep period, a person passes through four stages. Stage one, which accounts for about 10 per cent of the night, includes the periods of light sleep passed through shortly after falling asleep and right before waking.

Another 20 per cent of the time is spent in "slow wave" sleep — so-called for the brain waves it produces — which is the period of deepest sleep during which the human system is recharged.

Rapid Eye Movement — REM — accounts for another 20 per cent of sleep — and is associated with dreaming.

Stage two sleep, a combination of REM and slow wave sleep makes the remaining 50 per cent of the time. According to Wagman, barbiturates, such as phenobarbital and secobarbital, commonly prescribed for insomnia, do not provide the proper amount of REM and slow wave sleep. Such drugs, she said, leave an insomnia physically suffering from lack of sleep, despite the fact that he had his eyes closed for 3 hours, and believes that he slept.

L-Tryptophane is found in nature as one of the amino acids, essential protein building blocks without which humans cannot live.

The normal diet contains about one gram of L-Tryptophane. Wagman told physicians attending a one-day course on sleep disorders that the 12 insomnia patients who have been tested for the past year have been given one to three grams of the substance in addition to their normal diet.

She said that she and Dr. Quentin C. Brown, director of biomedical science at the Maryland centre, do not know how the substance works.

"It may be," she said,

"that insomnia has metabolic problems, that is, their bodies do not absorb the L-Tryptophane normally found in their food."

The researchers say they have found that the substance contributes to the buildup in the brain of serotonin, the substance that triggers the sleep mechanism. What is not known is whether L-Tryptophane acts on its own to induce sleep or contributes to the serotonin buildup.

Brown termed the effect on the insomnia "dramatic. The average (period of lying awake before sleep among the persons tested) was 30 minutes, night after night after night. We don't find that it screws up the patterns of sleep."

Wagman said that the substance has not yet been tested on insomniacs who are simply unable to sleep more than a few hours each night. She said research would continue on a group of about 20 insomniacs.

Wagman said that she and her colleagues have not found any side effects connected with the use of L-Tryptophane. Even a massive overdose only would cause the patient "to throw it up." She said, however, that the pills are large and do not have a pleasant taste.

Sleep disorders are a problem of major proportion in this country. It is possible, said Dr. Wagman, that the L-Tryptophane research may indicate that some of our national restlessness is caused by deficiencies in our diet.

"What you eat is how you sleep," she told those attending the sleep disorders course, pointing out that the traditional home remedy for insomnia, a glass of warm milk, contains tryptophane.

There has been dispute over the efficacy of the sleeping pills available without prescription. Wagman said she does not believe the substances are as useless as some have charged.

Tests under laboratory conditions have shown that some of the substances do not induce sleep.

However, she said, there is a big difference between the person who has an occasional sleepless night and takes an over-the-counter preparation, and the insomnia who volunteers for a laboratory research project. "Those preparations are very weak," said Wagman. At the same time she called all drugs "poison, because they are not natural and are not normally found in the system."

Wagman said she believes some drug firms will market L-Tryptophane as a sleeping pill within about a year. It has already received FDA clearance to be sold over the counter as an anti-depressant.

Brown said it was initially difficult to get subjects for the various sleep research projects being researched at the centre.

"We sent out letters to 125 physicians asking for patients with sleep problems," he said, "and we didn't get a single response."

The Brown appeared on a local TV talk show and mentioned the sleep research. "By the time I got back to the lab all three phone lines were blocked up (with volunteers). They stayed blocked for three days."

POPE PAUL PROCLAIMS MOTHER SETON SAINT

VATICAN CITY (AP) — As thousands of persons knelt on the cobblestones of St. Peter's Square on Sunday, Pope Paul proclaimed Elizabeth Ann Seton, a Protestant convert to Roman Catholicism, the first United States-born saint.

The huge square was filled with pilgrims, most of them Americans, as Pope Paul declared Mother Seton "among the saints in the Universal Church" and urged:

"Rejoice, we say to the great nation of the United States of America. Rejoice for your glorious daughter... be proud of her. And know how to preserve her fruitful heritage."

Shortly afterward, an Italian parachuted into the square carrying a replica of the statue of the Madonna that stands atop the Milan cathedral. The Roman Catholic pontiff and thousands of others cheered.

To the right of the basilica entrance, stood the Community Chorus of Emmitsburg, Md., where Mother Seton founded the United States' first Roman Catholic religious order of women, the Sisters of Charity, in 1808.

"This is the day we've been waiting for ever since I became a sister," said Miriam Jane, a Sister of Charity from Greensburg, Pa. "It's a cliché, but it's the most wonderful day of my life."

Sister Miriam was one of 100 people, including many nuns, who received communion from Pope Paul during the two-hour canonization mass.

Hunters To Report

The provincial government has instituted a compulsory reporting system for hunters taking mountain sheep, grizzly bear or cougar throughout B.C., or mountain goat in the northern and central coast areas.

James Hatter, director of the Fish and Wildlife Branch, said new regulations stipulate no one may possess such an animal unless it has been tagged by a branch officer within 10 days of being killed.

Hunters may receive permission to postpone the inspection if they are going on long hunts in remote areas or if they are using the service of a licensed guide, said Hatter.

He said the aim of the program is to provide the government "with an efficient and economical system for obtaining important data" for future management of wildlife.

Tastiest Pollution Rains On East Oakland, Calif.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — It may be the tastiest pollution yet, say government air control experts.

The residue, with a sugary flavor, is emitted from a canner, the experts say. It's like this:

DEEPSEA SHIPS

(All cargoes are forest products unless otherwise stated.)
Esquimalt — Sealord Finance, container ship in for work.
Houston Passage — N. R. Crump, U.K. and continental Europe: Frances.
Cowichan Bay — Irish Star.

Plan Backfires

TOKYO (AP) — One man was killed and another was seriously injured early Monday when a bomb exploded in their rented car just outside a Japanese defense post in Tokyo, police reported. They identified the wounded man as a member of a radical student group and said the dead man apparently belonged to the same band. Investigators said it appeared the two planned to plant the bomb at the post but it exploded prematurely.

They said they tasted the residue of the unusual pollution.

"It looks like catsup, but it tastes like sugar, a sort of sugary catsup," said pollution engineer Don Gilson.

He said that coming in contact with the steam was like brushing into a large wad of cotton candy.

"My hair was sticky, I had to wash it out as soon as I got home," he said.

Another pollution engineer, William Deboisblanc, testified there was a one-quarter-inch layer of catsup on the roof of the plant during his inspection of water droplets coming from the steam clouds.

He added that loading areas and driveways of the cannery are covered with a sugary, sticky material that may be fallout from the steam.

"You have to be careful where you step," he said.

'Concerned Citizen' Stirs Forestry Practices' Pot

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

"Is Everything All Right Up There?"

"No," says John Woodworth, a Kelowna architect, who decided as a "concerned citizen" to find out for himself what logging practices are doing to the land.

He finally wound up publishing a booklet bearing the question mark title.

"Up there" refers to the higher elevations where the soil is thin and the climate harsh — where logging companies are clear-cutting and burning slash — a practice which has gone on for years in B.C.

The writer claims the method of removing trees on higher altitudes is having devastating effect on watersheds, soil, and the quality of the water of lakes and rivers at lower levels.

He also accuses the forest industry of misleading the public on reforestation, and with claims that the present method of cutting timber will keep the industry producing at its current pace forever.

The booklet is being circulated among foresters and is creating some controversy.

Bill Young, assistant provincial chief forester, admits Woodworth has raised some valid points.

"But forestry today is a complex industry and so are the answers," he said.

He has discussed with Woodworth some of the issues raised in the booklet.

"It's creating a lot of interest," Young said.

While Woodworth's study deals with the Okanagan, many of his observations apply to Vancouver Island where high altitude logging has started to worry government foresters.

The son of farming parents, Woodworth is an architect with training in town and regional planning. He is one of the founding directors of the Okanagan Similkameen Parks Society and a trustee of the Nature Conservancy of Canada.

A reconnaissance pilot in the Second World War and still a flyer, he became interested in logging practices 10 years ago when he discovered from the air that clear-cutting logging methods were denuding the watershed of the Okanagan and surrounding valleys.

He says the average citizen has been led to believe that most felled trees are replaced the same year by new seedlings.

"Time and again he (the citizen) has seen the photographs of tree nurseries and planting programs in the newspapers and on TV," he says in his book.

But Woodworth says he walked and drove miles of clear-cut lands and found no evidence of major replanting on Okanagan watersheds.

"There has been no major planting over all the years of the newspaper and television promotion, and the glossy inserts in the weekend paper and national magazines," he states. "Not until 1973 was a sizeable block planted — about 500 acres."

"Furthermore, over all these years there has been no suitable Okanagan nursery to provide millions of seedlings needed to catch up with the backlog and to keep up with the annual cut."

Woodworth also says the public is never told of the failure or part failure of replanting schemes by the industry.

As an example, he says Northwood Mills Ltd. in 1973 carried out a major campaign to acquaint the public of its first replanting program in the South Okanagan. A total of 200,000 trees per year was to be planted on land which had been clear-cut five years previously and the slash burned.

"The writer became concerned about the particular area, because year after year of aerial examination there were no signs of new growth."

By the end of the first summer, he estimated 35 per cent of the seedlings which had been planted in June had died.

A forest ecologist from the University of British Columbia, who later examined the plantation, said Woodworth's estimate of 35 per cent mortality was charitable.

The ecologist came to the conclusion that the clear-cut was much too large and regeneration would be slow.

Woodworth blames the method of clear-cutting and slash-burning at high altitudes for the failure of some replanting schemes.

"It is worth observing," he adds, "that whenever concerned citizens of B.C. raise their voices about detrimental side effects of some modern logging practices, they are continually reminded in the press — by the public relations arm of the industry — that half of B.C.'s income is derived from timber."

He agrees that timber is a valuable resource which properly managed should be renewable in perpetuity.

"But if in the process of tree removal we should risk leaving the land unhealthy... then we are going to have to look for a better way to remove the trees, and to renew lands which have been deforested."

METRIC RIPOFFS UNDER SCRUTINY

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian metric commission will try to publicize cases where businesses take advantage of metric changeover to raise prices, says S. M. Gossage, commission chairman.

Gossage said on the CTV program Question Period Sunday that the commission has looked at two cases where this was supposed to have happened and found the problems were due to misunderstandings.

He was asked what the commission is doing to protect consumers from getting less for the same price when measurements are converted to metric. The commission was set up by the government to oversee the changeover, taking place during the next few years.

"We know that this is a very crucial matter," Gossage said.

But the commission had been told by businessmen that they have no intentions of using the metric conversion as a mask for raising prices.

These businessmen did not want to be "exposed to this charge that they're ripping off the public."

On mechanics' tools, Mr. Gossage said the commission is considering a proposal that employees required to buy new tools because of the change should be allowed tax relief.

Clemency Plan Ends in Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After one year, the clemency program for Vietnam War resisters ends today. The man who ran it says he is pleased with the program, but many of those it most affected are not satisfied.

President Ford scheduled a late-afternoon farewell meeting with the 18-member clemency board, which was to present its final batch of recommendations.

Its chairman, Charles Goodell, said, "we're quite pleased with the work the board has done."

"The program has completely failed in all areas," said Warren Hoover, executive director of the National Interreligious Service Board for Conscientious Objectors. "Less than 20 per cent of the people eligible applied and many of them have since dropped out."

Both sides concede the program failed to reach vast numbers of young men who found themselves in legal jeopardy because of the war.

Ford said when he announced the program Sept. 16, 1974, that its "primary purpose" was the "reconciliation ... and restoration of essential unity of Americans."

The latest preliminary statistics show the clemency board received about 16,500 applications from an estimated potential of about 100,000.

Draft dodgers and deserters, including many who went to Canada and Europe and still have not been indicted, were eligible to apply for generally low-paying, public service-type civilian jobs.

After serving for up to two years, but usually after only a few months, they would avoid prosecution or would receive a presidential pardon if they had convictions.

Almost before the ink was dry on Ford's proclamation, most amnesty proponents said the program was "punitive" and the major exile organizations abroad were calling for a boycott of the Ford program while continuing to demand universal and unconditional amnesty.

Vandal Slashes Rembrandt

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The director of the Rijksmuseum says the damage inflicted by an apparently deranged man to Rembrandt's painting The Night Watch can be repaired, but the restoration will take four months or longer.

"The canvas is badly damaged," said Dr. P. J. Van Thiel after a burly, 38-year-old man repeatedly slashed the priceless 17th century canvas, one of the most famous paintings in the world.

Officials said Wilhelmus de Rijk, a former teacher from a village 30 miles west of Amsterdam, entered the museum shortly after it opened Sunday afternoon, went directly to the spacious chamber where The Night Watch hangs and began slashing at the lower centre section of the huge painting with a serrated bread knife.

A guard grabbed his arm, but Rijk fought him off and moved across the painting to the right, slashing a centre section about seven feet wide more than a dozen times. Knife marks were more than two feet long, and a piece of canvas about 12 inches by 2½ inches was ripped off.

Two bystanders said guards who rushed in from other rooms helped to overpower the man. A guard quoted Rijk as saying he had been sent by the Lord to attack the painting.

Police said Rijk had a history of mental illness. He had taken the knife from an Amsterdam restaurant where he had lunch.

He was held on a charge of wilful destruction.

It was the second knife attack this century on the painting. An unemployed shoemaker protesting his inability to find work slashed the painting before the First World War.

After Sunday's attack, the painting was screened and a notice posted said: "We regret that Rembrandt's Night Watch is not on display due to wilful damage."

Two other artistic masterpieces — Michelangelo's Pieta and Pablo Picasso's Guernica — have been attacked in recent years while on public display.

TEACHER VOTE

NEW YORK (AP) — A ratification vote on a new contract to end the week-long teachers' strike in New York City may come as early as Tuesday, say representatives of the teachers' union and the board of education.

But the walkout by teachers in Chicago enters its 13th day today with no end in sight.

"We are near a conclusion, closer than we ever were," said Albert Shanker, president of New York's United Federation of Teachers UFT. The UFT's 65,000 members went on strike against the 1.1 million-student school system on Tuesday.

Shanker and Robert Christen, the school board's chief negotiator, said at a news conference Sunday that negotiations had been recessed until Monday because of Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of Atonement.

New York teachers, who made from $9,700 to $20,350 under the old contract, have reduced their original demand for a 25-per-cent wage increase, in light of the city's fiscal problems. Besides class sizes, issues include school board attempts to reduce teacher preparation time and to eliminate sabbaticals.

In Chicago, where 530,000 students and 27,000 teachers have been out of school since Sept. 3, the board of education and the city's teachers' union remained far apart in their differences over a cost-of-living salary proposal.

Chicago teachers made from $10,400 to $20,996 under the old contract.

Classes were scheduled to open today at the eight Chicago city colleges and Thornton Community College where three-week teachers' strikes ended Sunday.

Court Fights Gandhi Law

NEW DELHI (AP) — The high court ruled today that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi must be prepared with specific charges to back up her use of the Internal Security Act to arrest critics of her dictatorial rule.

A two-man tribunal ruled that Kuldip Nayar, an editor of the Indian Express and part-time correspondent for the Times of London, had been imprisoned illegally for seven weeks.

Government lawyers said they might appeal the judgment to the Supreme Court.

The ruling was expected to have marked impact on the cases of thousands of persons arrested since Mrs. Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency of June 26.

It was the first time since the emergency proclamation that a court declared a person had been unlawfully detained under the Internal Security Act. The judgment raised doubts about the future enforcement of the four-year-old act, which the government had Parliament amend in July to bar any court review of arrests made under the legislation. Another amendment said the government could detain a person for a year without disclosing grounds on which he was arrested.

The judges did not try to strike down the legislation itself but ruled the government should have at least disclosed to the court the reasons why Nayar was considered a threat to the preservation of public order.

The judges said he had never been a member of a political party, participated in political demonstrations or broken any laws. Nayar had held positions of great responsibility in the country, they said had a high reputation as a journalist for Indian and foreign publications and that government censors had not complained about any of his foreign news dispatches prior to his arrest.

TRIAL SET ON ROBBERY

Lawrence Stanley Shisler, 31, of 3390 Veteran, will stand trial in a higher court after the completion Saturday of a preliminary hearing in provincial court on a charge of robbery.

Shisler was charged after a $2,600 robbery of the Royal Bank at Hillside near Quadra April 24.

The trial was ordered by Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre on his last day in court before he leaves the bench.

Manchester Guardian

STOCKHOLM — Sweden is girding itself for an unaccustomed state of siege. The Japanese Red Army had declared war on the country.

The Chile tennis team is due to arrive for a Davis Cup match this week, and on Friday, police specialists barely managed to defuse a gasoline and explosive bomb which they estimated would have caused major damage within a 600-yard radius.

The Swedish problem is that all threats seem to come from different quarters. There is no single focus on which the security force can zero in. As a result, they are over-stretched and that much more vulnerable. All Swedish embassies abroad have been placed on special alert, and rigorous checks are to be introduced at Stockholm's airport. The police still have the rail, bus, car and sea routes to watch.

"We are taking these threats — all of them — very seriously indeed. We have no choice," says Commandant Gosta Danielsson of SAPO, the security police.

The Japanese problem began 10 days ago, when two Japanese living in Sweden were telephoned and asked to come to their local police station "for questions." They were immediately arrested, and Kyoichi Shimada, who had lived in Sweden for five years with his wife and son, was not permitted to see his family before the two men were deported to Tokyo, where they are now in the hands of the Japanese police. On Friday, Sweden received a communique from the Red Army, to which the two men were said to belong, promising vengeance.

The bomb, a mixture of gasoline and several sticks of dynamite crammed into a car trunk, was placed outside the Spanish tourist office. A telephone warning was received, giving "five to eight minutes" notice. The young girl's voice was, tape recorded, and her chilling message has been replayed continuously over the media throughout the weekend in the hope that a listener might recognize her voice.

And then there is the almost prosaic threat of the Chile tennis match, which the Swedish left has vowed to stop. The Swedish police, with a freshly equipped riot squad, has mobilized.

Nanaimo Campus Shaping

NANAIMO — The first building on the new $10.25 million Malaspina College campus now under construction off Wakesiah Ave. will be turned over to the college by the builders Sept. 26.

Completion of the learning resources centre was delayed some three weeks due to carpentry problems, said project manager Charlie Muir.

Muir said the administration area in the new cafeteria building will be ready for occupation by Oct. 18 and the "shakedown" in the kitchen area could start at the same time.

Roofing of the physics building is due to start this week.

Foundations, structural steel and decking have been completed for the physics and math-chemistry buildings and foundations are now being poured for the art, music and drama buildings.

Final drawings are now being prepared for construction of an air support structure to house the college gymnasium.

Cedar Hill Seniors' Program

A new season of programs for senior citizens at the Cedar Hill community centre begins Tuesday.

Each Tuesday until Dec. 9 there will be cards, checkers and chess from 10 a.m. to noon. Tea will be served.

Carpet bowling will take place Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 3 p.m. until Dec. 11.

The Tuesday morning sessions are 35 cents per person, the afternoon sessions cost the same. For the same price instruction sessions in carpet bowling will be held Thursdays from 10 a.m. to noon.

Letter Bomb Sent to Alcan

LONDON (CP) — The Canadian-owned Alcan Aluminum Co. became the victim of one of two letter bombs in London today as the explosion-by-mail scheme was resumed after a two-year lull.

This was the first time that the bombers, presumed by police to be the Irish Republican Army (IRA) or segments of it, had picked on a Canadian company. The bomb exploded in the company's offices in fashionable Mayfair but a secretary who opened the package was only slightly injured, police said.

The other package was addressed to Lady Pamela, Countess of Onslow, a central figure in an alleged spying operation against the IRA two years ago. The 56-year-old countess suffered wounds to her hands and face when she opened the letter bomb but her condition was reported as "not serious."

In the Alcan office, a spokesman expressed surprise that the bombers should have picked on a Canadian organization. However, Alcan is planning to build a multi-million-dollar alumina processing plant in the Irish republic and there have been outcries by Irish environmentalists who fear the Shannon area would become polluted.

The letter bomb was addressed to a senior company public relations officer who has been in the republic for some months dealing with the protests.

Police said both bombs were mailed in Dublin. The bombings renewed fears that guerrillas may be planning the resume their terror campaign.

100-Foot Plunge Death for Two

Two young Victorians whose four-wheel-drive Toyota plunged 100 feet down a Sooke cliff were among 14 people who died accidentally in B.C. during the weekend.

Helen Louis Wilson, 19, and Grant Douglas Peart, 20, were travelling on the Butler Brothers' main logging road off Otter Point Road when the accident occurred at about 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

Sooke RCMP said the driver, Miss Wilson, lost control of the vehicle at a curve on the gravel road, skidded 500 feet around another curve and over the embankment.

Coroner Roy Gilling said an inquiry will be held following post mortem and lab report findings.

The woman, a UVic student, was daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson of 30 Beach Drive. Peart, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Peart, of 665 Blyth, graduated from Oak Bay high school last June and has been working as an apprentice carpenter.

Three others among the 14 were killed on Vancouver Island.

Campbell River resident William Pomponio, 60, died Saturday four miles south of Campbell River on the Island Highway in a two-car collision.

Oscar Konrad, 46, of Gold River, drowned Saturday at Tsoewit Narrows in the Tsoewit Inlet. RCMP said Konrad's fishing line appeared to have got caught on the outboard motor leg of his boat. He reached over to free the line and fell overboard. He was a poor swimmer, RCMP said, and his wife, who was in the boat, attempted to rescue him with a fishing net but was unsuccessful.

Surface crafts and divers searched the area but the body was not recovered. Kelowna resident Hugo Tews, 37, drowned Sunday in the Campbell River when his fishing boat capsized. The motor of the boat had become hooked on a guy wire, Campbell River RCMP said, and when Tews tried to unhook it, the current flipped the craft over.

Other fatalities in the province included Chung Po Chan, 19, of Nanaimo, who was killed in Vancouver Saturday when the car in which he was passenger was struck by another vehicle at an intersection and crashed into the back of a pickup truck.

Near White Rock, Earl Allan Hildebrand, 25, of Surrey, was catapulted into the water and run over by his boat. RCMP said a steering pulley had broken, making the boat swerve violently and run in circles. Hildebrand was fatally slashed by the boat's propeller.

Traffic victims on the mainland were Lorraine Briggs, 39, of Kamloops; Donald Hirschman, 17, of Aldergrove; Edith Bergeron, 63, of Vancouver; Richard Clark, 39, of Vancouver; Daniel Marinus Beck, 17, of Surrey; Robert Elwood Ellis, 83; and a person whose name is being withheld by police, who was killed Sunday on the Squamish Highway.

Gov't Employees Win Shorter Hours, COLA

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

The provincial government and its major civil service union have reached agreement on a new master contract including cost of living and fringe benefits worth at least $93 a month for each employee.

B.C. Government Employees Union executives will recommend its 35,000 members accept the 22-month agreement which covers general working conditions for all employees.

The ratification vote should be completed by Oct. 27 and if the contract is accepted the 13 component groups within the BCGEU will begin negotiating individual wage agreements.

BCGEU executive secretary John Fryer said the new master agreement, the second negotiated with the government since the civil service won the right to unionize, is "a pretty good one."

He said the cost of living agreement (COLA) is an excellent one and will give employees an adjustment every six months starting Oct. 1. The COLA clause will give employees a one per cent increase in salary for every one per cent increase in the consumer price index over the preceding period.

Fryer said he would agree with Provincial Secretary Ernie Egan that the COLA clause and the large catch-up increases in wages granted the BCGEU last year will likely mean less dramatic wage

Developing Nations, U.S. Deadlocked Over Aid

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the developing countries sought today to break a last-minute deadlock in their efforts to formulate a unanimous UN declaration on closing the rich-poor gap in the world.

The major disagreements were over the Third World desire for industrial countries of commit themselves to link what they pay for raw materials to the prices of their industrial exports, and to pledge to meet the UN goal of seven-tenths of one per cent of gross national product allocated to foreign aid by the end of the 1970s.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan said the U.S. could not commit future congresses or administrations to specific goals by specified dates.

Moynihan, Assistant State

Secretary Thomas Enders and ministers and diplomats from much of the world met well past midnight Sunday night. They were trying to end the General Assembly's two-week economic special session in unanimity rather than with a split vote that would leave the aid-giving industrial powers in a tiny minority.

Moynihan and Enders warned Third World delegates that failure to agree might jeopardize a consensus achieved in Washington on the far-reaching foreign economic program proposed by the U.S. at the start of the special session.

They said it would be years before any U.S. administration would again present such a program of funds and agencies.

Adjournment of the special session has been postponed since Friday. Delegates have been meeting almost around the clock seeking consensus before Tuesday, when the General Assembly begins its annual three-month, regular session.

Meanwhile, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko led the annual influx into New York today of senior foreign diplomats who will attend the opening of the General Assembly. Gromyko was expected to meet with U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger about proposals to station 200 American technicians in the Sinai desert and other Middle East issues.

The forthcoming 30th regular Assembly session includes in its agenda numerous items concerning the Middle East.

The official said the Egyptian leader warned he would take "decisive measures" if the PLO and Arafat failed to ensure the immediate release of the Egyptian ambassador and his aides.

Egyptian Embassy Seized

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt agreed tonight to a request by Palestinian gunmen occupying the Egyptian embassy in Madrid for an aircraft to fly them to Algeria, the Middle East news agency reported.

The gunmen are holding the Egyptian ambassador and two other diplomats hostage.

The guerrillas seized the embassy today and threatened to kill the ambassador and two other Egyptian diplomats unless Egypt renounced the interim peace agreement with Israel by midnight (6 p.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the guerrillas said that five Palestinian raiders had barricaded themselves inside the embassy and mined the building.

"The moment someone opens the door or a window, the whole place will blow up," he said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held the Palestine Liberation organization and its leader, Yasser Arafat, personally responsible for the consequences of the embassy raid, an Egyptian official announced in Cairo.

The official said the Egyptian leader warned he would take "decisive measures" if the PLO and Arafat failed to ensure the immediate release of the Egyptian ambassador and his aides.

'Alice Doesn't'—Oct. 29

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. National Organization for Women has asked all women to go on strike Oct. 29 to show the nation how much it depends on them.

Daylyn Jones, now co-ordinator of the nationwide strike, said women across the U.S. are being asked not to work or spend any money on that day, and instead to participate in rallies, demonstrations, marches and other mass events in most major cities.

She predicted thousands of women would participate. A similar strike was held in 1974.

Wednesday, Oct. 29 will be called "Alice Doesn't" Day, a reference to the Ellen Burstyn movie entitled "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" dealing with a middle-aged woman who takes off on her own after leaving her husband.

In response, according to Ms. Jones, the antifeminist forces led by Phyllis Schlafly planned a counter action entitled "Alice Does."

"We are not all feminists," Ms. Jones said. "But we are all Alices. We all feel that we've been had by the system and it's going to recognize us and do something about it."

She said on Oct. 29 women are being told that "Alice Doesn't":

—Work in or out of the home.

—Spend any money for groceries, services or transportation.

—Volunteer for anything.

—Provide any support to non-feminist political causes, candidates and issues or any non-feminist instructions including businesses, government, churches and unions.

—Eat, sit or act the role of parent.

—Support the image of women in the media.

—Women who cannot leave work are being asked to wear an "Alice Doesn't" armband, organize a potluck luncheon, picket at lunchtime, demand raises and promotions or hold a consciousness-raising workshop, Ms. Jones added.

Sing a Song of Service And Make Those Contacts

This being the start of "Victoria Jaycee Week" I really ought to zero in on that subject, yet any competent psychologist, I daresay, might diagnose my antipathy for such "service clubs" as a hold-over from the days when I associated them with acute physical and mental indigestion.

For more years than I like to recall it was my chore to spend an average of three noon-hours a week covering the luncheon meetings of Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and the rest, wading through the mandatory fare (oh, how I recall that wet, sliced chicken!) and recording for posterity the remarks of the speakers, as predictable and as perishable as the limp blue-plate special itself.

The hearty Babbitt-like atmosphere of these affairs, the chummy camaraderie of the businessman in the uneasy role of booster and joiner, has been the subject of so much wicked satire since Sinclair Lewis first cast his baleful eye on them that I need hardly add my ounce of salt to the wound.

It is enough to say that the climate induced by these solid, stolid citizens, banded together in the name of "service", yet each motivated by somewhat less altruistic considerations, left me with what may be a life-long revulsion. Why, only last week, in the small community in which I live, the local Chamber of Commerce took a vote on capital punishment and decided that the noose must come back, a typical enough example of what happens when merchants are introduced to group thinking.

In my day, and doubtless it's the same today, it was the practice of at least one of these clubs to affix small celluloid buttons to the lapels of the chaps, giving their name, nickname and line of business which, of course, is why most of them are there.

Bill was "insurance", Mac was "real estate", Slim was "ball bearings", Jim was "home appliances". The newcomer need merely glance at this instant identification to establish a bond of hale-fellow companionship and a potential business contact.

Of them all, however, none aroused my morbid interest as much as the Junior Board of Trade, now known as the Junior Chamber of Commerce or "Jaycees".

It was "Torchy" Anderson, a neighbor of mine and one of the great Canadian newspapermen who, having weathered an hour or two of their earnest hypocrisy, coined the derisive phrase, "No shirt too young to stuff." It has always seemed to me the perfect Jaycee motto.

My own fascination with the jolly junior, executive set kept me tuned to their wave-length long after my superiors had gathered me a reprieve from an early death on the luncheon circuit.

I have watched with a professional's admiration the Jaycees' uncanny ability to get publicity by the tens of thousands of column-inches through such Mickey Mouse stunts as Clean-Up, Paint-Up campaigns, effective speaking courses and get-out-and-vote "drives" which must rank with "National Moth-Ball Week" and the "Eat More Broccoli" crusade as dedicated contributions to humanity.

The records do not show that anyone has ever cleaned-up or painted-up who wasn't going to do it anyway or that any one ever cast a ballot that wasn't to be cast in the first place, but such endeavors permit the Jaycees to dress up in funny costumes, get their pictures in the paper and keep them off the streets at night.

They also have the virtue of being absolutely non-controversial, pretty well meaningless and harmful to no one, which befits a group of young go-getters banded together in the hallowed name of good fellowship and commerce with the emphasis on the latter.

A good many of them are sponsored by their office seniors who are in Chamber of Commerce (Mayor Peter Pollen refers to it as "The Flat Earth Society") and know that there's nothing to help a growing boy in business like the contacts he makes over a gang lunch. This being the case, one could hardly expect them to do anything naughty or against the status quo.

But one of the most entertaining aspects of the service clubs and particularly of the Jaycees is their curious political outlook. Their creed puts them for "free enterprise" (they are also strongly in favor of God, the law and motherhood) and they are thus opposed to government "interference" in social welfare.

So you find the familiar pattern of token, charitable work being conducted by businessmen, young and old, whose idea of "service" is to dabble as amateurs in work that cries out for comprehensive state control. It is the kind of thinking prevalent in every service club, that leads to such ultimate lunacies as the Red-Feather drive in which deserving agencies, dealing with people in deep trouble, invariably ask for less than they need, invariably get less than they ask for.

The so-called "civic leader", for example, who will fight like the devil against public taxation for the guaranteed care of the sick or the underprivileged will think it quite consistent to put up his name as chairman of a service club campaign fund that can mean no more than a drop in the bucket for the cause in question.

But when you see young men fitting themselves so snugly into this mold, enjoying the self-righteousness of "service" in what is really a club for promoting their own careers, it makes one grieve a little and, indeed, to wish that they might do a little clean-up, paint-up job on their ideals.

Whale Well Enough To Go This Week

A whale being held by Pedder Bay Marina for shipment to a Niagara Falls, Ont., exhibitor will be well enough to move this week, according to the federal fisheries department in Vancouver.

A spokesman said the killer-whale — probably the last to be captured in B.C. waters for commercial purposes — is eating 90 pounds of herring a day and plans for the move by Air Canada are under way.

He said there was no question of a deadline for the whale's removal, although the provincial department of recreation and conservation had said earlier the creature must be moved by Tuesday.

The federal permit allows the sale of the whale in Canada and names John Holer, of Marineland, Niagara Falls, as the buyer.

Sealand and Pedder Bay Marina, said it was "total bunk" that the whale was actually going to be shipped to a California buyer, as declared by Rod Manning, of the Greenpeace Foundation.

Wright said Greenpeace people — who campaign to save whales from extinction — make lies and innuendoes as a means of keeping their cause alive because they had failed to halt the Pacific whaling fleets during the summer.

Wright said he would himself sue Holer if he learned the whale was actually going to be sold in the U.S.

The federal fisheries office said Holer, whose facilities were inspected last Friday by a member of the Vancouver staff, is enlarging his pool installation to provide for a third whale.

Counterfeit Bills Seized

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce officials have turned over $1,800 worth of counterfeit U.S. $50 bills to Vancouver police after the bills were deposited in a Victoria bank.

Made of inferior paper, the bills were found to be counterfeit after being sent to the bank's main Vancouver branch Thursday.

Victoria police said the money was part of $1,999 deposited by a woman whom they would not identify, who obtained the money in Chile in a real estate deal. They said no one has been charged.

Colored threads normally embedded in legal U.S. currency are only inked onto the bogus $50 bills.

House Prices Level Off After 15% Climb in Year

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

House prices have gone up about 15 per cent during the past year but have levelled off now, Victoria Real Estate Board president Eric Charman said today.

Further moderate price increases can be expected after buyers adjust to the new mortgage interest rates, which are in the range of 11.75 to 12 per cent.

"I do not foresee any decline in house prices or in interest rates in the next year," he said.

"Unless there is a dramatic decline in the rate of inflation, prices and interest rates will continue to rise."

Charman made the comments in releasing an eight-month report on Victoria real estate sales.

The report showed sales under the multiple listing service totalled $595.8 million for the first eight months of this year, up 63.6 per cent from the same period of 1974.

Total number of units sold was 1,892, up about 50 per cent from 1,281 in the corresponding 1974 period. Average unit price was $50,670, up 10.7 per cent from an average sale of $45,450 at the same time last year.

However, the 10.7 per cent cannot be taken as the increase in house prices, Charman said. The figure is the average sale for a wide range of properties, including condominiums, lots and apartment buildings.

The only guide to the increase in house prices is by the observation of realtors, he said.

On average, they report an increase of about 15 per cent for houses, although this varies with the type of house.

Shirley Philips, manager of Homefinders Wall and Redekop, said bidding is brisk on houses under $50,000 but surprisingly slack on new homes in the range of $35,000.

"Any good house coping on the market under $50,000 will attract a buyer very quickly," she said.

"The real surprise has been that some very good new homes are not moving at all. There are some real bargains available in that type of housing."

Monthly payments are higher for homes in the $50,000s than for those at lower prices and this is stopping many families from buying this type of housing.

At Lee, manager of Block Bros., Blanshard, said real estate sales continue to be quite strong despite the higher mortgage interest rates.

"With the rates this high, sales are good for this time of year," he said.

Lee said there appears to be less resistance to 11.75 to 12 per cent money this time around. Resistance was stronger at this time last year when the mortgage interest rate soared from 11 per cent to 12.5 per cent.

The realtors expect house prices to be stable over the winter months with some moderate price increases expected early in the new year.

UVic Buildings Noisy, New Methods Needed

University of Victoria lecture, laboratory and library facilities have structural defects that make them too noisy for some purposes.

A survey by physicist Dr. Walter Basse, a specialist in sound, showed some areas to be better than suspected and others that were worse, acoustically speaking.

"We learned a lot in making the survey and I hope the information on different rooms will be of interest to those concerned," Basse said.

Some areas may be improved by installation of sound-absorbing or reflective material, depending on the deficiency. But the report pointed to the need for improved techniques in designing university buildings in future.

Some rooms were found to be "too reverberant for good intelligibility of speech, especially with small audiences," the report said.

SECOND SECTION

Wiggle Variety For Mall

Construction on the second phase of the Government Street Mall starts next Monday, and this time there may be a bit of a wiggle in the widened sidewalks.

City engineer John Sanson said today his staff is discussing with the contractors the possibility of changing plans to inject some variety and interest in the decorative red tile surface.

This might be achieved through indentations in the curb lines, or perhaps even tiles of contrasting colors, he explained.

"Basically we want to get away from the straight-line effect which many people seem to have found boring in the first phase," Sanson said.

The city engineer also indicated that it may be possible to make minor alterations in the work already done on the first three blocks, to soften the somewhat clinical perspective.

Meanwhile, his department as managed to obtain from the city of Seattle the molds to make cast-iron benches of the old-fashioned curly variety. About a dozen of these benches will be installed along the mall by the spring.

City traffic engineer Dave Campbell said where construction resumes one lane of Government between Fort and Yates may be kept open to traffic for the first week or so.

Southbound traffic on Government will be diverted via Johnson or Yates, the three southerly blocks already mail-converted, between Humboldt and Fort, will stay open to circulating traffic; and Wharf will remain open to two-way traffic.

$570 Rent by 1980?

Rent in January 1974, $150.

Rent in January, 1980, $570.01.

That's how it will go, or worse, if landlords had their way, says Ann Tarasoff, president of the Capital Region Tenants' Association.

The renters' group, which Mrs. Tarasoff says has about 250 members locally, was responding to an earlier suggestion from the Rental Housing Council of B.C., a landlords' organization, that rent increases of 28 per cent a year for five years be allowed.

The council has suggested that such increases be put into effect quarterly to lessen their impact but that would generate still higher increases through cumulative 7 per cent jumps, says the tenants' association.

From a rent of $150 a month in January last year and allowing for the 10.6 per cent increase permitted by government for that year, quarterly increases of 7 per cent would bring that rent to $611.81 a month by October of 1983.

The B.C. Tenants Organization last week suggested the 10.6 per cent increase allowed last year was too high and there should be a limit of four per cent next year.

Mallard Can't Find Takers

Municipalities and regional districts will be asked to support a detailed study of operating treatment plants that convert domestic waste and sewage into compost.

The study proposed by environmentalist Derrick Mallard would involve visits to 20 British, European and U.S. treatment plants, compilation of the results in audio-visual form and an assessment of costs and revenues.

Mallard presented his plan to provincial ministers of housing, municipal affairs, agriculture, mines and petroleum resources and lands, forest and water resources in July. None was willing to support the study, which Mallard estimated would cost $10,825.

He said there was no response from Municipal Affairs Minister Jim Lorimer or Housing Minister Lorne Nicolson. Resources Minister Bob Williams replied, but offered no help; Mines Minister Leo Nimick said he would consider the request if it came to cabinet, and Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich suggested specific areas of study, but did not commit himself to support or rejection of the idea.

It would be local jurisdictions that would initiate and construct such facilities, although the provincial government is expected to provide leadership and therefore the funding of surveys, Mallard suggests.

The operating plants recover salvageable materials and process sewage and garbage for agricultural use.

"We should be looking upon waste as resources," Mallard said. "Some way or other I intend to get that study completed."

He suggested that if the provincial government would not support him, he would go elsewhere.

"If the NDP won't support it, then maybe I'll go after other bodies — other parties and private sources. Waste is a non-political issue," he said.

A model recovery system assembled through an Opportunities for Youth grant during the summer was exhibited recently at the legislative buildings and was received favorably. Mallard said great interest was shown at the technical level by departmental staff members.

Cal Murphy has yet to experience defeat in his new role as head coach of B.C. Lions. Thanks to quarterback Peter Liske, Lions reeled off their third straight victory since Murphy replaced Eagle Keys at the helm, downing Toronto Argonauts in convincing fashion to move back into contention for a playoff spot in the Western Conference of the Canadian Football League. There's no strike talk among Vancouver Canucks, who opened training camp at Memorial Arena today in preparation for the approaching National Hockey League season. All 22 players on last season's playoff contenders have signed and are among the 47 beginning a week of workouts here. Page 11.

Victoria Cugars, meanwhile, were struck by misfortune when the second-hand bus they bought broke down en route to Kamloops for a pair of pre-season games against the Chiefs. Adding insult to injury, last season's Western Canada Hockey League first-place finishers lost both games. Page 11.

Letter Bomb Sent to Alcan

LONDON (CP) — The Canadian-owned Alcan Aluminum Co. became the victim of one of two letter bombs in London today as the explosion-by-mail scheme was resumed after a two-year lull.

This was the first time that the bombers, presumed by police to be the Irish Republican Army (IRA) or segments of it, had picked on a Canadian company. The bomb exploded in the company's offices in fashionable Mayfair but a secretary who opened the package was only slightly injured, police said.

The other package was addressed to Lady Pamela, Countess of Onslow, a central figure in an alleged spying operation against the IRA two years ago. The 59-year-old countess suffered wounds to her hands and face when she opened the letter bomb but her condition was reported as "not serious."

In the Alcan office, a spokesman expressed surprise that the bombers should have picked on a Canadian organization. However, Alcan is planning to build a multi-million-dollar aluminum processing plant in the Irish republic and there have been outcries by Irish environmentalists who fear the Shannon area would become polluted.

The letter bomb was addressed to a senior company public relations officer who has been in the republic for some months dealing with the protests.

Police said both bombs were mailed in Dublin. The bombings renewed fears that guerrillas may be planning to resume their terror campaign.

100-Foot Plunge Death for Two

Two young Victorians whose four-wheel-drive Toyota plunged 100 feet down a Sooke cliff were among 14 people who died accidentally in B.C. during the weekend.

Helen Louis Wilson, 19, and Grant Douglas Peart, 20, were travelling on the Butler Brothers' main logging road off Otter Point Road when the accident occurred at about 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

Sooke RCMP said the driver, Miss Wilson, lost control of the vehicle at a curve on the gravel road, skidded 500 feet around another curve and over the embankment.

Coroner Roy Girling said an inquiry will be held following post mortem and lab report findings.

The woman, a UVic student, was daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Wilson of 30 Beach Drive, Peart, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Peart, of 665 Fyng, graduated from Oak Bay high school last June and has been working as an apprentice carpenter.

Three others among the 14 were killed on Vancouver Island.

Campbell River resident William Pomponio, 60, died Saturday four miles south of Campbell River on the Island Highway in a two-car collision.

Oscar Konrad, 46, of Gold River, drowned Saturday at Tsowayin Narrows in the Tahsis Inlet. RCMP said Konrad's fishing line appeared to have got caught on the outboard motor leg of his boat. He reached over to free the line and fell overboard. He was a poor swimmer, RCMP said, and his wife, who was in the boat, attempted to rescue him with a fishing net but was unsuccessful.

Surface craft and divers searched the area but the body was not recovered. Kelowna resident Hugo Teves, 37, drowned Sunday in the Campbell River when his fishing boat capsized. The motor of the boat had become hooked on a guy wire, Campbell River RCMP said, and when Teves tried to unhook it, the current flipped the craft over.

Other fatalities in the province included Chung Po Chan, 19, of Nanaimo, who was killed in Vancouver Saturday when the car in which he was passenger was struck by another vehicle at an intersection and crashed into the back of a pickup truck.

Near White Rock, Earl Allan Hildebrand, 25, of Surrey, was catapulted into the water and run over by his boat. RCMP said a steering pulley had broken, making the boat swerve violently and run in circles. Hildebrand was fatally struck by the boat's propeller.

Traffic victims on the mainland were Lorraine Briggs, 39, of Kamloops; Donald Hirschman, 17, of Aldergrove; Edith Bergeron, 63, of Vancouver; Richard Clark, 39, of Vancouver; Daniel Marquis Beck, 17, of Surrey; Robert Elwood Ellis, 83, and a person whose name is being withheld by police, who was killed Sunday on the Squamish Highway.

Gov't Employees Win Shorter Hours, COLA

By LINDA HUGHES
Times Staff

The provincial government and its major civil service union have reached agreement on a new master contract including cost of living and fringe benefits worth at least $83 a month for each employee.

B.C. Government Employees Union executives will recommend its 35,000 members accept the 23-month agreement which covers general working conditions for all employees.

The ratification vote should be completed by Oct. 27 and if the contract is accepted the 13 component groups within the BCGEU will begin negotiating individual wage agreements.

BCGEU executive secretary John Fryer said the new master agreement, the second negotiated with the government since the civil service won the right to unionize, is "a pretty good one."

He said the cost of living agreement (COLA) is an excellent one and will give employees an adjustment every six months starting Oct. 1.

The COLA clause will give employees a one per cent increase in salary for every one per cent increase in the consumer price index over the preceding period.

Fryer said he would agree with Provincial Secretary Ernie Hall that the COLA clause and the large catch-up increases in wages granted the BCGEU last year will likely mean less dramatic wage

A male body was found at 9:50 a.m. today at the foot of Locarno, Saanich police said at noon.

The body was found by a group of children from Arbutus School.

Police Accept Pact

MONTREAL (CP) — A strike by Montreal policemen was averted Sunday after they narrowly accepted the city's final contract proposals by a 460-vote margin during two blistering meetings. Boos mingled with cheers as Gilbert Cueste, president of the Montreal Police Association, announced that the proposals, which include an improved offer on the crucial issue of work schedules, had been accepted.

Bonds Yield 10.24%
OTTAWA (CP) — Upcoming government bonds yielding a record 10-per-cent interest rate will be priced to yield 10.24 per cent, the finance department announced today. The yield is the highest for government bonds, with the exception of Canada savings bond bonuses announced last year which raised the average annual yields to some previous series to 10.5 per cent if held to maturity.

Gales Lash U.K.

LONDON (AP) — Record rains fell on Britain Sunday and gales lashed the southern coast, killing two persons, authorities said. Three other persons were reported missing after their boat hit a rock. Southampton had its wettest September day this century when 2.14 inches of rain fell in 18 hours, weather officials said.

Peron Replaced

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Senate leader Italo Luder has taken over as caretaker president of troubled Argentina, replacing an exhausted Isabel Peron for a month — and maybe longer. Leaders of the ruling Peronist Party as well as the opposition greeted the change with optimism and hailed the peaceful transfer of power as a triumph for the constitutional process.

TOKYO (AP) — A liger cub, the offspring of a lion and a tigress, died today as a result of its premature birth, officials at Osaka's Tennoji Zoo said.

Developing Nations, U.S. Deadlocked Over Aid

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the developing countries sought today to break a last-minute deadlock in their efforts to formulate a unanimous UN declaration on closing the rich-poor gap in the world.

The major disagreements were over the Third World desire for industrial countries to commit themselves to link what they pay for raw materials to the prices of their industrial exports, and to pledge to meet the UN goal of seven-tenths of one per cent of gross national product allocated to foreign aid by the end of the 1970s.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Moynihan said the U.S. could not commit future congresses or administrations to specific goals by specified dates.

Moynihan, Assistant State

Secretary Thomas Enders and ministers and diplomats from much of the world met well past midnight Sunday night. They were trying to end the General Assembly's two-week economic special session in unanimity rather than with a split vote that would leave the aid-giving industrial powers in a tiny minority.

Moynihan and Enders warned Third World delegates that failure to agree might jeopardize a consensus achieved in Washington on the far-reaching foreign economic program proposed by the U.S. at the start of the special session.

They said it would be years before any U.S. administration would again present such a program of funds and agencies.

Adjournment of the special session has been postponed since Friday. Delegates have been meeting almost around the clock seeking consensus before Tuesday, when the General Assembly begins its annual three-month regular session.

Meanwhile, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko led the annual influx into New York today of senior foreign diplomats who will attend the opening of the General Assembly.

Gromyko was expected to meet with U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger about proposals to station 200 American technicians in the Sinai desert and other Middle East issues.

The forthcoming 30th regular Assembly session includes in its agenda numerous items concerning the Middle East.

'Alice Doesn't'—Oct. 29

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. National Organization for Women has asked all women to go on strike Oct. 29 to show the nation how much it depends on them.

Daylyn Jones, now co-ordinator of the nationwide strike, said women across the U.S. are being asked not to work or spend any money on that day, and instead to participate in rallies, demonstrations, marches and other mass events in most major cities.

She predicted thousands of women would participate. A similar strike was held in 1974.

Wednesday, Oct. 29 will be called "Alice Doesn't" Day — a reference to the Ellen Burstyn movie entitled "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" dealing with a middle-aged woman who takes off on her own after leaving her husband.

In response, according to Ms. Jones, the antifeminist forces led by Phyllis Schlafly planned a counter action entitled "Alice Does."

"We are not all feminists," Ms. Jones said. "But we are all Alices. We all feel that we've been had by the system and it's going to recognize us and do something about it."

She said on Oct. 29 women are being told that "Alice Doesn't":

- Work in or out of the home.
 - Spend any money for groceries, services or transportation.
 - Volunteer for anything.
 - Provide any support to non-feminist political causes, candidates and issues or any non-feminist instructions including businesses, government, churches and unions.
 - Babysit or act the role of parent.
 - Support the image of women in the media.
- Women who cannot leave work are being asked to wear an "Alice Doesn't" armband, organize a pollack luncheon, picket at lunchtime, demand raises and promotions or hold a consciousness-raising workshop, Ms. Jones added.

Forest Meeting Called

At the request of Premier Barrett all parties in the forest industry labor dispute have been called to a meeting in Victoria on Tuesday.

Deputy labor minister James Matkin said labor and management representatives were notified of the request early this afternoon.

The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. at the legislative buildings and Labor Minister Bill King will preside over the discussion which Matkin refused to elaborate on or discuss.

The deputy said that he did not want to speculate on what plans the government has for the meeting or whether the government plans to initiate some course of action.

Egyptian Embassy Seized

CAIRO (Reuters) — Egypt agreed tonight to a request by Palestinian gunmen occupying the Egyptian embassy in Madrid for an aircraft to fly them to Algeria, the Middle East news agency reported.

The gunmen are holding the Egyptian ambassador and two other diplomats hostage.

The guerrillas seized the embassy today and threatened to kill the ambassador and two other Egyptian diplomats unless Egypt renounced the interim peace agreement with Israel by midnight (6 p.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the guerrillas said that five Palestinian raiders had barricaded themselves inside the embassy and ruined the building.

"The moment someone opens the door or a window, the whole place will blow up," he said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat held the Palestine Liberation organization and its leader, Yasser Arafat, personally responsible for the consequences of the embassy raid, an Egyptian official announced in Cairo.

The official said the Egyptian leader warned he would take "decisive measures" if the PLO and Arafat failed to ensure the immediate release of the Egyptian ambassador and his aides.
